Kennedy Picks Hodges For Commerce Secretary

Governor Of S. Carolina

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy Saturday tapped North Carolina Gov. Luther H. Hodges, onetime textile industrialist, to be his secretary of commerce.

Hodges, standing by Kennedy's side for the announcement, promptly expressed concern about the economy of the United States under the outgoing Republican administration.

He promised to make the Commerce Department a vital, challenging force for the nation.

Kennedy announced Hodges' appointment to some 50 reporters and cameramen crowded on the flagstone patio at his family's ocean-front home here. It was the president-elect's second cabinet selection. On Thursday he named Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut to be secretary of health, education and welfare.

Kennedy said Hodges, 62, a Democrat, "will bring to his new position experience in both business and government."

Hodges, whose appointment announcement was an hour late because of the delay of his overnight train from North Carolina, told newsmen he is concerned that the economic position of the United States is "not at the top." This was in reply to a query on whether he thought the nation was on the edge of an economic recession.

"I think," Hodges said, "the thing is far worse than the present administration has ever led us to believe. I think that the inventories are high and that the orders on the part of merchants, manufacturers, are not as good as they have been."

He declared the economy needs a new stimulation, "which I hope we can get beginning Jan. 20 with a rebirth of confidence."

Aid to depressed areas apparently will be one of the new administration's first major steps toward bolstering the economy. Kennedy told the news conference he would have an important statement about unemployment areas Sunday.

During his campaign Kennedy hammered at what he called an urgent need to promote government help for areas of unemployment in an effort to stimulate business.

SPACE RESEARCH DIVIDENDS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A solar storm subjected the Discoverer XVII satellite to strong radiation and gave scientists an unexpected dividend in their space research.

The Air Force said Friday the gold-plated capsule from the satellite will yield the first factual data on the effects of so-called sun spots on human tissue and structural materials after prolonged space flight.

The 300-pound, instrument-loaded capsule, which contained two samples of human tissue, traveled more than a million miles through space in polar orbit, then was recovered by a plane 9,000 feet above the Pacific Ocean near Hawaii Nov. 14.

Meeting Of Pope, Anglican Primate Promotes Unity

LONDON (AP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, returned Saturday from his historic call on Pope John XXIII with a statement that even closer contacts will be maintained between Protestants and Catholics.

The Anglican primate, who also saw Christian leaders in the Holy Land on a 10-day trip climaxed by his visit to the Vatican Friday, said the Christian Church already is united in spirit.

"One purpose of my trip was to clear the way for regular, frequent and informal exchanges of interests and understanding among the different branches of the church," he told newsmen at London Airport. "All this can now happen."

At the Vatican, Pope John, 79, said their meeting "went only as far as the threshold of great problems," but left hope for the eventual solution. Speaking to Cardinals and archbishops with whom he participated in preparatory services for the Christmas season, the pontiff said, "I admire the sincere force of good will which Dr. Fisher is carrying forward."

Dr. Fisher's call on the Pope was the first official contact between the heads of the two churches since the English Reformation more than 400 years ago.

It was clear that a 65-minute conference between the primate and the pontiff could not immediately solve the centuries-old doctrinal differences between the two churches.

But Dr. Fisher said: "If anyone was disappointed that our encounter did not go further toward union—I was not. Unity of spirit is essential before more concrete union, and I found unity of spirit already exists.

"Union will take a long time, just as a piece of broken china cannot be quickly mended."

President-Elect Confers Monday With Symington

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy said Saturday he will confer here Monday with Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., who has completed a study for him on reorganization of the Defense Department.

The two will fly back later to Washington. Kennedy added that he and Symington may hold a joint news conference before they leave.

Kennedy made known his plans at the home of his parents on the Atlantic shore, where he is spending the weekend.

On Tuesday the president-elect will meet at the White House with President Eisenhower for a discussion of the changeover from a Republican to a Democratic administration.

Kennedy will fly to New York from Washington late Tuesday, spend the night there and return probably late Wednesday. In New York, he plans to meet, he said, several persons, possibly including Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary-general.

Red Faces Red

Fate Of Space Ship Dogs Unmentioned

MOSCOW (AP) — Little Bee and Little Fly were the forgotten dogs in the Soviet Union Saturday.

There was no mention of them in the communique announcing that their five-ton space kennel had disintegrated on re-entering the earth's atmosphere.

The communique — first Soviet admission of a space failure — also caught some Soviet papers with red faces showing.

Gudok, thrice-weekly organ of the railroad workers, hit the streets with a top front-page cartoon showing a triumphant space ship sneering at an old woman dressed in star-spangled bunting and carrying a market bag full of tiny objects labeled "American sputniks."

"How much a pound for your sunflower seeds?" the rocket is asking.

The Literary Gazette, which also comes out three times a week and was in type before the failure was announced, waxed lyrical. It had an inspirational drawing of a rocket take-off, carried the original communique and no fewer than three poems hailing the "triumph." Along with letters of congratulations this covered half the front page.

The poems were "Highroads" by Andrei Lupan, "On the Interplanetary Crossroads" by Yuri Yakovlev, and "Wings of Peace" by Nikul Erkal.

Other papers carried nothing but the communique with its bare reference to disintegration in the last paragraph.

None mentioned the fate of Little Bee and Little Fly.

Victor Babukin, director of the Moscow Planetarium and frequent commentator on Soviet rocket successes, displayed no outward signs of pessimism when reporters asked him about prospects now for putting a man into space.

Asked what might have caused the latest space ship to fail, Bazukin said he had no information other than what was in the communique.

Fires Take 59 Lives In Last 2 Days

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 59 persons have died in fires and related accidents in the nation in the last two days. Many of the victims were children.

The death count by states was: Florida 7, Louisiana 10, Maryland 7, New York 6, New Jersey 2, Ohio 5, Pennsylvania 4, South Carolina 10, Tennessee 8.

Seven members of one family died in a blaze that swept through a La Plata, Md. farm house while the occupants slept.

Five children and a woman caring for them were killed in a fire that destroyed a home at Monroe, La.

In another Louisiana fire, a mother and three of her children died when flames gutted their home on the outskirts of Franklin.

Three young brothers and a neighborhood chum, ranging in age from 5 to 10, died in a fire in a small frame house at Cleveland, N.Y.

In a Miami, Fla., home a flooded kerosene heater suddenly flamed up, killing two elderly women.

At North Charleston, S. C., a mother and her niece were asphyxiated by gas in their home while they slept. In another South Carolina accident, a burning sofa suffocated three children.

A 75-year-old woman and her 38-year-old blind son, died in their flaming home in Columbia, S. C.

Other fires included:

A frame dwelling in Smithtown, N. Y. caught fire while a kerosene stove was being filled, killing a 34-year-old man.

In Brooklyn, a three-month-old girl died in a burning home, and in Kearny, N. J. a one-year-old boy was asphyxiated in a similar blaze.

Plans To Salvage Grounded Ship Stalled By Wind

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — Windy Lake Michigan Saturday stalled salvaging plans for the grounded Liberian freighter Francisco Morazan.

The U. S. Coast Guard said continuing winds of 25 to 30 knots prevented a tug from putting salvage experts on board.

The 246-foot ocean-going Morazan, fast on a South Manitou Island reef since being hurled there by a storm Tuesday night, was taking more punishment from waves but apparently remained safe with its crew of 13.

Young Capt. Eduardo Trivizas' wife, Anistisia, 29, who was taken off the stranded ship Thursday, changed her plans to leave for New York at this time.

Youth Who Fled After Fatal Accident Comes Back Home

BELLMORE, N. Y. (AP) — A teen-aged boy who ran away from a family tragedy he had caused by accident came back Saturday.

John Maiorana, 17, who had dashed out of his home and driven away after fatally shooting his sister, made contact late in the day with his parents through a priest.

Police, who took the call at the boy's home here, rushed to a private home in North Bellmore and found the distraught youth with the unidentified Catholic priest.

Police said John confirmed in his own words their own theory of the shooting: that it was an accident.

John was taken to a police station for further questioning, but his parents and a huge crowd of neighbors who clustered around in this Nassau County, Long Island community were sure he would be home soon.

As police reconstructed it, the tragedy happened this way:

John returned from a fruitless rabbit and squirrel hunt Saturday.

At his mother's insistence he took off his muddy boots in the kitchen.

In his stocking feet he went into the family television room and started to clean his shotgun—a gun his father didn't want him to have but which he had bought with money given him by his mother.

John's sister, Julianna, 13, was watching a TV program. The two were heard laughing and joking together.

Then there was a thunderous blast. Somehow the gun, which shouldn't have been loaded at such a time, was.

"My God, oh my God!" screamed the boy.

A moment later his mother saw him rush from the house, jumped into the family automobile and raced away into the early evening darkness.

In the TV room, the horrified mother found her daughter dead, struck in the face by the gun's discharge.

Scores of police and detectives fanned out over a wide expanse of Long Island but could find no trace of the boy or the car. His anguished parents broadcast a desperate plea.

Soviet Airlift To Laos Starts

By ROY ESSOYAN

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The first flight of the Soviet airlift to Laos landed in Vientiane Saturday with 16 extra pilots and navigators aboard but no Soviet aid.

The plane was a trail blazer to familiarize pilots with the route. The pilot said the airlift will start shortly with twin- engined Ilyushin 14 transport planes.

The first plane was a week behind schedule.

More than 2,000 other flights, stretching far into the future, will be needed to airlift the 5,000 tons of petroleum products the Russians have promised as a "goodwill gift" to the divided Loatian government. Later flights are expected to bring milk, flour and sugar to relieve acute shortages in areas under this government's control.

Saturday's plane flew in from neighboring North Viet Nam's capital, Hanoi, a two - hour flight.

An American - made flatbed tractor, part of the multimillion-dollar U.S. aid program in Laos, stood by to unload. American-made planes lined the runway and American-built cars filled the parking lot.

The Statue of Liberty was first proposed by Edouard de Laboulaye, who ran a United States office of war information in Paris during the Civil War. The statue was finally dedicated in 1886.

Terms It Free Lunch Counter

HAVANA (AP) — The semiofficial newspaper Revolucion complained Saturday that President Eisenhower's decision to give $1 million in aid to Cuban refugees in Florida "opens up a free lunch counter" for counterrevolutionaries.

By allocating the money to help the 30,000 refugees, the U.S. government "officialized and legalized the financing of counterrevolution" against the Castro regime, the newspaper said.

It castigated the refugees as people "who are disposed to live without working and are willing to join in battle against the Cuban revolution."

No mention was made of the fact that Eisenhower acted under a law pertaining to aid for refugees from Communist - run governments, which in effect officially labels Cuba Communist for the first time in Washington.

Said Revolucion: "The Yankee government, which has never had a holy attitude toward its Negroes in the South threatened by hordes of KKK (the Ku Klux Klan), which has never concerned itself with the exploitation of Latin American peoples, which had no compassion over dropping atomic bombs on Hiroshima, now says it is spending a million dollars to help Cuban refugees."

The government-controlled organ accused Eisenhower of creating a system of "botellas" (payoffs or bribes) for "the war criminals in Florida . . . those who

Clerks, Party Watchers Work On Cook County Ballot Recheck

CHICAGO (AP) — Election board clerks and party watchers worked intently today at long tables in a crowded City Hall office on a ballot recheck Republicans hoped might help scuttle Sen. John F. Kennedy's presidential election victory in Illinois.

The din of heated charges and counter-charges between GOP and Democratic politicians subsided somewhat as close attention was paid to the recheck.

But, Mayor Richard J. Daley, chief of Cook County's Democratic forces, still smarting at accusations of Republicans, said they stemmed from a "conspiracy to prevent a man who was elected by the people from becoming president."

Republican State's Atty. Benjamin S. Adamowski, who requested the recount, asserted earlier that Democrats had stolen 100,000 votes.

GOP National Chairman Thruston Morton, who came to Chicago for a look at the situation Friday, said he had evidence of "tombstone voting" in some Chicago precincts.

Republican leaders hoped that a recheck of the county's 2½ million votes would wipe out the 8,849 plurality Kennedy had over Vice President Richard M. Nixon. Nixon ran well ahead of Kennedy in the tally of 2¼ million downstate votes. But Cook County returns more than offset the downstate margin.

Only the 25 teams at the Chicago board of election commissioners worked at the recheck during the weekend. They were about one-fourth of the way through 863 paper ballot precincts.

A similar recheck on a smaller scale at the Cook County clerk's office was recessed until Monday because it involved only 43 precincts.

Mobutu's Rough Treatment Of Lumumba May Backfire

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Western diplomats said Saturday the savage treatment dealt former Premier Patrice Lumumba by Congolese troops may backfire against Col. Joseph Mobutu's pro-Western regime.

Lumumba, captured by Mobutu's forces at Port Francqui Thursday night while trying to reach his Stanleyville stronghold, was brutally manhandled in public view when he was returned here Friday.

One Western ambassador said he was deeply shocked over what he called the jungle violence meted out to the leftist Lumumba.

The diplomat said Mobutu's regime won a significant victory with the seating of President Joseph Kasavubu's delegation at the U. N. General Assembly last month. But "the fruits of this victory may well be thrown away with such exhibitions of uncivilized brutality, we can expect the Soviet bloc to get the maximum propaganda mileage out of it," he said.

Mobutu watched with folded arms as his soldiers slapped and pushed Lumumba, grabbing him by the hair to turn his face toward waiting photographers.

The army strongman was not present a short time later when the soldiers took Lumumba to an improvised prison at the Binza paratroop camp. Eyewitnesses said Lumumba, arms tied tightly behind his back, was set upon by 40 screaming troops, punched, kicked and shoved to the ground. They said Gilbert Pongo, Mobutu's security chief who claims credit for arresting Lumumba after the ousted premier left his U.N.-guarded villa here Sunday night,

National Church Council Opens Conference Today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A modern "Isaiah" in a business suit steps to the rostrum here Sunday to launch a key strategy conference of American Christianity.

It's the triennial general assembly of the National Council of Churches, and at the helm of the proceedings is a man of strong words and action.

The Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, a crusading Baptist and the council's president, says "the moral and spiritual issues confronting the churches are stupendous in their dimensions."

In leading the interdenominational meeting in its efforts to deal with those issues, he is not one to dodge a struggle.

He climbs mountains for a pastime. And he's an unswerving Christian activist, who sees the Gospel not only as the means of saving souls but of solving social problems.

"If Jesus had played it safe as we do, and confined Himself to little Mickey Mouse morals, He would probably never have been heard of," he says.

That's the sort of spur he puts to the assembly, representing most of the nation's major Protestant and Orthodox churches.

He maintains that just as Jesus "collided head on with all the great public issues of His day," the churches must assert God's claims in every sphere of social, economic and international life.

The meeting, which marks the 10th anniversary of the council, includes representatives of 33 denominations with 40 million members. About 3,000 church people are expected, 694 of them voting delegates.

Russians Protest Lumumba Arrest, Demand Release

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)— A Soviet-bloc delegate demanded in the U.N. General Assembly Saturday the immediate release of the Congo's deposed premier, Patrice Lumumba. Lumumba is a prisoner of Congolese troops of strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu.

Kuzma V. Kiselev, foreign minister of White Russia, injected the demand into an assembly debate on colonialism. He was called to order by Frederick H. Boland of Ireland, assembly president, for straying from the issue under discussion.

Kiselev said his delegation "decisively protests against the savage and arbitrary arrest of Mr. Lumumba and demands his immediate release."

He went a step farther than the Russians, who called on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold Friday night to report immediately on wha:

Prices Of Christmas Trees Unchanged, Quality Poorer

NEW YORK (AP)—Americans shopping for Christmas trees in the next few weeks will have about the same number to choose from as last year—and at about the same price.

But they may find quality down a bit, an Associated Press survey indicated Saturday.

Chances are a good balsam fir 5 to 6 feet high will retail for $3 to $5, subject to special conditions that may prevail in remote localities.

Some reports point to keener competition for Scotch pines, and consequent higher prices. The long-needled, bushy Scotch pine has grown rapidly in popularity in recent years.

Already the trees are flooding to market by truck and rail. As usual, heavy cutting began in November this year in the heavy producing Northwestern, New England and Great Lakes states.

Generally mild weather facilitated the harvest.

In Washington, American Forest Product Industries Inc. estimated that 40 million—possibly 44 million—trees will be marketed, about 12 million of them imports from Canada. The lower figure would be only a shade ahead of last year.

About one out of eight American-grown units will come off a tree farm, or plantation after 10 to 15 years growth from a row-planted seedling. The big bulk once more will be harvested from natural forested lands.

A warning on quality came from Carlton Hodges of Albion, Maine, president of the Maine Christmas Tree Association.

"It would appear that after a heavy cut last year, quality is down a little," Hodges said. "This is the way it usually happens."

Kennedy Holds 152,832 Vote Edge Over Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Largely through a big pickup in absentee ballots from the state of Washington, Vice President Richard M. Nixon's total popular vote for president passed the 34-million mark today.

Sen. John F. Kennedy's national plurality was cut to 152,832, the lowest since post-election counting began.

With official returns complete for 36 states and only 160 precincts missing in the unofficial tabulations for the remaining 14 states, the popular vote now stands:

Kennedy	34,168,319
Nixon	34,015,487
Other	415,267

The total vote of 68,599,073 is by far the largest on record. It surpassed the previous high — in 1956—by 6,570,014.

Nixon picked up 53,569 votes in the counting of absentee ballots and some previously unreported precincts in Washington compared with his unofficial total. Kennedy gained 40,934 in the same count.

The official Washington result gave Nixon 629,086 to Kennedy's 599,160. The state was one of 27 carried by Nixon with an electoral vote of 223. Kennedy had popular margins in 22 states with an electoral count of 300. Mississippi gave its eight electoral votes to an unpledged slate of electors.

The 415,267 ballots so far counted for neither Kennedy nor Nixon were divided 299,019 for minor parties and 116,248 for Mississippi's unpledged elector slate.

The National States Rights party led the minor parties with 214,549 votes. These included Alabama 4,367, Tennessee 11,304, and Delaware 354, pledged to Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas; and Arkansas 28,952, and Louisiana 169,572, unpledged.

Second in the minority party list was the Prohibition party ticket headed by Dr. R. L. Decker, Kansas City Baptist minister. He polled 40,432 in nine states.

MUSHROOMS—ANYONE?

Four happy mushroom gatherers display their catch Thursday evening after a brief hunt in the eastern section of Jacksonville. Left to right, Lynn Hoover, Jeannie Hoover (329 West Douglas) and Virginia Greenleaf and Jim Greenleaf (1634 Lakeview) estimated the weight of their bumper crop of Oyster Shell Mushrooms to be about 40 pounds. The four were hesitant to reveal the exact source of their unusual crop but said the mushrooms were found in the city limits in the eastern section of town. They estimated the entire 40 pounds were gathered in a small area in about ten minutes. The Oyster Shell is an edible mushroom so named because of its color and growing formation.

They tell the story about a wicked bridge player who was condemned to play throughout eternity with nothing but nine and ten card heart suits and a partner who would insist on spades.

Of course, after a few eons he might learn to give up and let his partner play the hand at a reasonable contract, but I doubt it. Most bridge players feel that a seven card suit should be bid indefinitely, so that there is no stopping them when they hold a nine carder.

Today's hand looks as if it is stacked for East and West. With 18 points between them they can make three no-trump, but needless to say they drop out of the bidding after West's opening diamond bid.

From then on it is a question of just how far North and South will go in bidding their seven card suits against one another and if they get beyond the two level whether or not East and West will go into the doubling business.

When the hand was actually played in the Desert Empire Regionals those North-South pairs who stopped at the three level and went down one undoubled came close to top, but one pair actually managed to stop at two spades and wound up with a plus score.

It wasn't any great skill. South had his ace of clubs stuck in back of the queen and North just didn't feel like bidding.

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
4 ♥	Pass	6 ♥	Pass

You, South, hold:
♠ A Q 5 4 ♥ A Q 7 6 ♦ 2 ♣ A K J 7
What do you do?

A—Pass. You can be sure that your partner does not hold the ace of diamonds so that seven just won't make.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding six hearts your partner has bid five diamonds. You read this as an ace showing bid. What do you do?

Answer Monday

If you want to toast sesame seeds, put them in a small heavy pan and stir them over moderate heat.

Ohio State Speaker At College

Dr. Delbert Oberteuffer, left, head of the graduate division of physical education at Ohio State University, with Dr. Betty Hartman and Dr. Daniel Unruh after speaking at a MacMurray College convocation. Dr. Hartman is head of the women's physical education department at MacMurray, and Dr. Unruh is Director of Athletics and head of the men's physical education department.

Dr. Delbert Oberteuffer, head of the graduate division of physical education at Ohio State University, emphasized the part played by athletics in the total program of a college at a MacMurray College convocation Thursday.

Dr. Oberteuffer disparaged claims that winning teams are an asset to the college in terms of alumnae gifts, student enrollment, faculty, or public relations. "There is no provable evidence that a winning team does anything for the town, the coach, or the university that is educationally significant," he said.

"Even if it did help the college or the town, there are other more important values to be gained from athletics, to be found in the interpretation of the experience for the participant."

The only purpose of athletics, Dr. Oberteuffer emphasized, is to bring about the best possible total development of the participant. As the athletic program becomes an end in itself, not integrated into the total educational program of individual students of the college, it loses all substance and usefulness.

Dr. Oberteuffer, recognized as one of the national leaders in physical education and recipient of many of the highest honors in the field, also spoke following a banquet given for him in McClelland dining hall.

Addressing the staff and majors of both the men and women's physical education departments, he titled his speech, "What Do We Offer?"

With The Girl Scouts

Two Board committees met this past week — the public relations committee met Friday morning at the Scout office. Mrs. George McNamara is chairman of that committee. Plans for the annual report were discussed. Members of the program committee, Mrs. William Gross, chairman, met Friday noon at Hamilton's cafe for a regular session.

This week other committees will meet: Membership - nominating committee at 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 5, at the Scout office and the Camp committee on Wednesday, Dec. 7, at 9:30 a.m. at the office.

Members of the finance committee will meet at 12:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 8, at Hamilton's cafe. C. A. Hemphill is chairman of finance. The public relations committee will meet again on Friday evening, Dec. 9, at 9:30 o'clock at the Scout office. Members of that committee are urged to attend since important plans must be made.

No other formal meetings are planned for the week since all troops and their leaders are busy making favors, practicing for singing carols, making gifts and Christmas decorations.

For those interested in singing carols, we have available in the Scout office a mimeographed sheet with the words to familiar carols which each girl can have with her so she doesn't have to learn the words. Pick up as many copies as you need.

Two other Jacksonville residents were convention visitors at the National Council meeting in St. Louis last month and were not mentioned with the other visitors. They were Mrs. Lester Abbott and Mrs. Lawrence Plummer. They went on Thursday, Nov. 17, and had lunch with the Vermont regional group on that day.

Troop News

Intermediate Troop 17 of Winchester has now advanced in rank from a Brownie troop. The "fly-up" ceremony was held recently at the school with mothers of the girls in attendance as well as members of Intermediate Troop 57 many of whom have sisters in Troop 17. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lillie Maberry, leader of Troop 17, and the girls in the troop to their guests. Songs were enjoyed and closing circle with "taps" and a prayer concluded the meeting.

Awards presented were: Janis Coultas, 2 stars, wings and Girl Scout pin; Shirley Dolen, 2 stars, wings and pin; Barbara Smith, Michele Watt and Jeanne Maberry, 2 stars, wings and pin; Dawn Owens and Bonnie Rubb, wings and Girl Scout pins.

Intermediate Troop 104 of Beardstown is going strong with a full contingent of a leader, Mrs. Barbara Lawson, three assistant leaders, Mrs. Kitty Sinnock, Mrs. Margaret Goldsmith and Mrs. Marian Wells, and a troop committee composed of Mrs. Doris Hults and Mrs. Jean Roley. There are 16 girls in the troop and they have had their "fly-up" ceremony and have completed the requirements for tenderfoot rank. They recently made pine cone tray favors for a nursing home in Beardstown.

Brownie Troop 26 of Meredosia, Mrs. Lou Caldwell leader, was entertained at a birthday party observing their first birthday in Scouting by the members of Troop 109, a new Brownie troop organized last month with Mrs. Mary Gant as leader. The girls in Troop 26 were presented with membership stars as a gift from Mrs. Mardell Donham, assistant leader of the troop. The party was held at the grade school. Favors were made by Troop 109 and games and refreshments made the party complete.

Brownie Troop 23 of South Jacksonville school composed of 10 girls was presented with a flag by the Amvets at a meeting last week. Pictures were taken of the event. Mrs. William E. Smith is the troop leader and Mrs. Charles Burger her assistant. The girls are planning to make Christmas favors and small gifts for their parents.

Brownie Troop 91 of Greenfield, organized in October, held an investiture service Monday at the home of Mrs. Howard Houlette in Greenfield. All mothers of the 11 girls in the troop were present. Mrs. Velma Wyman is troop leader and her assistant leaders are Mrs. Verona Wallack and Mrs. Joyce Strang. The girls in the troop are second graders and they have made Thanksgiving favors and are now working on Christmas favors for a nursing home.

Mayor Proclaims Hospital Fund Drive In White Hall

WHITE HALL—The following proclamation has been issued by the Hon. J. W. Baldwin, Mayor of White Hall, on Dec. 1st, 1960, regarding the annual White Hall Hospital Drive:

Whereas, we are now approaching the Christmas Season in celebration of the Master's birth, which occurred some 1960 years ago, what could be more timely, yes more Christian, than to help in our humble way those who are suffering today: Did not the Master spend much of his time and energies during His ministry healing? and

Whereas, the new White Hall Hospital was organized some four years ago for the purpose of healing the sick, diseased or maimed and the relief of suffering. This corporation is a non-profit organization and is not supported by tax funds. This $200,000 corporation has been built with funds donated by citizens of our community over a period of several years, however, the organization owes approximately $50,000.00. It owed some $71,500.00 a little over two years ago which exemplifies the response of loyalty to this great cause by the people of our community the past two years, and,

Whereas, the White Hall Hospital did some $69,000.00 business in its first year of operation and some $73,000.00 in its second year of operation, an increase of some 6%. The number of infants born at the hospital the first year was 69, the second year, 107, an increase of 38 or about 50%. When the hospital started operations, there were three doctors on the staff and today there are ten. Yes, the area served by the hospital is being increased. May this good work continue to increase, and

Whereas, there will be a canvass of every citizen of our community from December 1st, to 7th, when called upon give generously, the cause is worthy and greatly justified. Times are good, we are at Peace and most of all there is no greater joy one can sense than to know you are giving of yourself, to help the less fortunate who are in need, and

Whereas, the White Hall Hospital is not only dependent upon funds but upon trained personnel, especially nurses. If there are any young women considering nurses training, who need financial assistance, contact the Board of Directors of the White Hall Hospital. This is a very rewarding profession, consider it carefully as a lifetime work, and

Whereas, any bequest, in any form, property, land, securities or cash would be very timely as well as greatly appreciated. Do you love your neighbor as yourself? This is a good Christian way to help, and Therefore, I, J. W. Baldwin, Mayor of the City of White Hall do hereby proclaim the week of December 1st to 7th, 1960, as White Hall Hospital Week.

J. W. Baldwin, Mayor

Fire Sweeps 110 Acre Timber In Greene Co.

JERSEYVILLE — A forest fire swept through 110 acres of woodland in the locality north of the Spankey vicinity a mile north of the Jersey-Greene county line on November 30, according to a report made here Friday morning by District Forester Waldon Lewis.

"Although we have had a number of rains in the locality, the past few weeks," Lewis stated, "the bed of the forests in our area remain comparatively dry and easily set on fire. We had an unusually dry August, September and part of October, and the only thing that will completely eliminate the danger of forest fires will be a snow or a lot of additional rainfall."

Lewis reported Friday morning that the fire patrols of the district were on full time duty again as the fire danger mounts with the cessation of rainfall.

According to Lewis' report regarding the fire in Greene county the area burned over was the largest of the current fall season. He described it as not as hot a fire as would be found in the midst of a drouth period, but it was plenty hot to require a lot of battling by fire fighters to check.

Lewis again called attention to the need for careful disposal of cigarettes, matches and other items calculated to cause fires. He stated that he had received a call regarding a fire danger in southwestern Jersey county in the Lock Haven district Thursday evening.

The fire fighting patrols found that a number of brush piles had been set afire during the day and left unattended as evening approached. The brush burning as of Friday was being continued under supervision.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market turned the corner into December this week with its sharpest weekly decline on average in a month and a half.

Prices were rising as the week ended, however, and the question along Wall Street was: Is it a technical rally or, hopefully, the start of a "traditional" year-end rally?

Brokers seemed to think the former was more likely. For one thing, the business news was mostly bad and therefore provided no real springboard for an advance. For another, they noted that the rally started just above the 590 level in the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, one of the street's so-called "resistance" levels, for the week the Dow average was off 10.47 at 596.00.

The Associated Press 60-stock average declined 2.20 to 2.14.10, making it the largest drop since one of 4.90 in the week ended Oct. 22. The week's decline contrasted with an 8-point gain during the month of November.

Brokers professed to like the way the market acted in the face of the gloomy business news, the uncertain economic outlook and the equally uncertain plans of the new Kennedy administration regarding business and finance.

Selling to establish tax losses, and subsequent replacement buying, also tugged at the market. The extent of such transactions was illustrated by Monday's total of 1,266 issues traded, the greatest number since 1,269 issues changed hands last Jan. 6.

Brokers also liked the way volume tended to contract as prices declined early in the week and tended to expand as the market firmed later on. Total turnover on the week came to 16.8 million shares compared with 12.71 million in the previous four-day week. The daily average was 3.36 million shares against 3.17 million the previous week.

The total was the highest since the week ended Oct. 1 and the average the highest since the week ended Nov. 12.

The most active stock on the American Stock Exchange was Leftcourt Realty, off ½ at 2½ on 103,400 shares.

Bond prices coasted lower in November for the second consecutive month.

For corporates the decline was 50 per cent steeper than October and measured up as the second worst of the year behind September. Treasure issues fell ½ to almost 2 points, finally steadying this week after four of retreat.

The tight election, a flood of new financing in the middle of the month, bewilderment over the possible fiscal policies of the new administration and increased concern over the balance of payments and gold problem were cited as causes for the lower prices.

Volume totaled $30.91 million par value on the New York Stock Exchange, compared with $21.55 million the previous week. The total was the third best of 960. The daily average increased to over $6 million compared with $5.39 million.

Cull and choice slaughter ewes 5.00-6.00.

CHICAGO (AP) — The largest supply of butcher hogs for any week since January turned prices downward as much as 75 cents a hundredweight this week. At the close, the top was $18.25 compared with $19 a week ago.

A good deal of the setback was ascribed to the unexpectedly large run on Friday when 9,000 head went on sale, the heaviest supply for a Friday this year.

The market for slaughter steers started off on a weaker trend as supplies showed a moderate increase but after midweek prices steadied somewhat. However, they closed 25 to 50 cents lower than last week. An improved market for carcass beef was credited with some of the late firmness.

Slaughter lamb prices slumped sharply on Wednesday when a supply of 4,500 head was offered, the largest for any day in almost two years. Until then prices had held steady to 25 cents higher but thereafter they were as much as 50 cents lower for the week.

GRAIN FUTURES MARKET DECLINED IN PAST WEEK

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market fell into decline again this week after last week's partial recovery from a prolonged setback.

Corn was the only gainer, mostly in small fractions although it had only one day of weakness in the five trading sessions. In that one day of pressure, though, most of the early small advances were lopped off.

Most attention centered on tenders to deliver on December contracts. These initial notices on Wednesday were somewhat heavier than expected for most commodities, particularly wheat and oats. However, the bearish effect was largely neutralized in the wheat pit by aggressive bidding on export accounts and short covering.

While retenders circulated rather freely, brokers said they appeared to be well accepted, indicating a willingness to take actual ownership of the grain for commercial customers.

During the week, old crop wheat deliveries sold at or near their highest levels of the crop year. Profit taking became heavy at those levels and best prices failed to hold long.

Some oats and all rye contracts again traded at season lows for the third successive week. Offers of corn deliveries were relatively meager and that grain continued in good demand all around. Brokers said there were signs that the storage problem for the record crop may have been solved. They noted that Chicago arrivals continued to dwindle and that cash dealer demand for high quality corn was strong.

Much of the new crop was described as still too wet to meet commercial requirements generally and dealers may be forced to compete for suitable stocks during the next few weeks. But it was pointed out that some commercial users had obtained supplies from government - owned stocks.

Soybeans remained in what brokers called a trading range, influenced considerably by markets for such end products as soybean oil and soybean meal. The arrival of cold weather had a mildly bullish effect in the soybean meal trade but its influence was offset by weaker soybean oil prices at times.

Wheat finished the week ½ cent a bushel lower than a week ago, December $2.02¾; corn unchanged to 1¼ higher, December $1.03¾-¾; ½-2½ lower, December 57-57¼; rye unchanger to 2¼ lower, December $1.07¼; soybeans 1¼-1½ lower, January $2.15¼-¼.

WORK ON COOK BALLOT RECHECK

Earlier, the vote figures on more than 7,000 voting machines were checked in the massive election review.

Republican watchers who were scratching votes from ballots they considered spoiled, and claimed a gain of 1,655 votes for Nixon on the review through Friday. There was no comparable up-to-date total of results announced by election officials. But their figures on tally shift showed a much smaller Nixon gain on paper ballot recheck than did those of the Republicans.

The recheck was actually ordered on behalf of Adamowski as a discovery proceeding to permit him to seek evidence which might be used in petitioning for a court-ordered official recount.

are not accustomed to work but only to assassinate other Cubans."

Revolucion also brought up a new charge about U.S. destruction of an erring rocket three days ago above the Holguin area of eastern Cuba.

The newspaper ran a story from Holguin, under an eight-column banner (headline), saying fragments from the U. S. space missile had killed an inoffensive cow grazing on a ranch seized and administered by the Agrarian Reform Institute.

The U. S. Embassy had received by Saturday neither an expected protest about the rocket's flight over Cuba nor a reply to Washington's request that fragments be returned for examination and analysis.

Make Plans For Go-Cart Racing In Calhoun Co.

HARDIN—The Calhoun Apple Advertising Club and Fair Association is making plans to sponsor go-cart racing in the county beginning next spring. The possibility of this venture was discussed at a meeting of the club Friday night in Hardin, and much interest was shown in it. A race track will be built on the property at the north edge of Hardin which is leased by the association as fairgrounds, club officials said.

This new plan is in keeping with the C.A.A.C. policy of broadening the use of the fairgrounds property for more people of the county, and in more seasons of the year, Herman Pohlman, club president, stated that it will also serve to create more recreational facilities within the county.

Also discussed at Friday night's meeting was the construction of an additional livestock barn. The Farm Bureau has offered to furnish the labor for the building, and it was decided to start construction immediately on a new 72 x 72 foot barn. The original barn has proved inadequate for the steadily increasing entries in the Junior and 4-H livestock and agriculture fairs which are held each year in connection with the Calhoun Apple Festival.

It was announced at the meeting that the rehabilitation money received from the state agriculture department by the fair association this year was $3,723.63. This is money paid to a county fair organization for permanent improvements made on the fair grounds. The department also assists with fair premiums, and the amount paid to the local organization for premiums was $2,318.54.

According to the witnesses one of the soldiers read in a loud voice a recent statement by Lumumba restating his claim to be the Congo's only rightful premier.

The soldier then wadded the paper into a ball and shoved it down Lumumba's throat. Lumumba made no protest. But he winced in pain when another soldier tightened the rope holding his arms behind his back. Lumumba and three aides were then pushed into a room where, apparently, they were again beaten savagely. Bystanders said they heard screams from inside but could not see what went on.

Boat Works At Grafton Fills U. S. Contracts

JERSEYVILLE—Jerseyville Rotarians listened to a talk after dinner Monday noon by Edward Fry of the Grafton Boat Works of Grafton, Ill.

The Grafton Boat Works has been under its present ownership since 1952 when the Fry interests moved their boat building equipment to the Jersey county city.

Fry mentioned the facts that the first boat works building in Grafton was destroyed by fire. The second one to occupy the site was destroyed by a tornado, and the third structure now houses the present Grafton Boat Works. The company is a closed corporation with six stockholders and manufactures a variety of steel boats on order.

Many of the vessels built or building are orders from the Federal government for special purposes, the most of the ones thus far delivered being utilized by the army engineers in a number of localities.

The Grafton Boat Works is now employing at least 35 skilled workers in filling its various contracts. The Fry interests began building boats in St. Louis in 1935 before eventually acquiring the Grafton Boat Works and removing all the machinery to the latter place.

The program chairman for the Rotary Club meeting Monday noon at the Peace Evangelical and Reformed church was Robert Krause.

Among projects discussed during the after dinner business session was the one of the drive for new members and filling of open classifications.

Illinois College Defeats Rose Poly For 2nd Straight Win

MacMurray And Routt Register Victories

Highlanders Annex 70-64 Verdict Over Ill. Wesleyan Saturday

BLOOMINGTON — The MacMurray College Highlanders took an early lead over the Illinois Wesleyan Titans and needed an eight point boost by Marv Hohenberger in the final three minutes of play to earn their second win in as many starts, 70-64. The Highlanders led for most of the first 30 minutes of action but the Titans made their bid in the second half and came within 1 point of Mac seven times.

Coach Bill Wall's Highlanders were equal to the task and received very balanced scoring in downing the Titans. McCarty and Price shared honors with 13 points, but Gary Little added 12 and Mau and Hahnfeld got 9 each. But perhaps the biggest points were the ones registered by Hohenberger in the role of sparkplug.

MacMurray is now 2-0 for the young season and the Illinois Wesleyan crew is an even 1-1.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—The road gets rougher for Illinois' young basketball team as the season's second contest brings a talented Butler contingent to George Huff Gymnasium Tuesday night. Game time is 8 p.m.

The Bulldogs, perenniel sounding board for Big Ten quintets, licked Wisconsin 73-58 at Indianapolis Thursday, while Coach Harry Combes' Illini were turning back Creighton, 99-74. Off those two games, it appears likely that Illinois will be facing stiffer competition against Butler than in the opener.

The first game was "moderately pleasing" to Combes. He plans to continue experimenting with different combinations in an effort to come up with a set first five before the Big Ten opener at Ohio State Jan. 7.

Illini showed personnel balance and depth against Creighton. Combes used two complete units, and both performed well. He also made some spot substitutions in the second half.

Four sophomores—Bill Burwell, Dave Downey, Bill Small, and Bob Starnes—were particularly impressive. Starnes led the scoring with 18 points. Burwell hit six of eight field goal attempts and led both teams in rebounding with 12. Downey had 11 rebounds and 15 points. Small, although still showing effects of a virus infection which hospitalized him last week, scored eight points and handled "floor general duties like a veteran.

Creighton used a zone defense, so that Illini were unable to display their pattern offense which is receiving greater emphasis this season. Butler normally uses a man-for-man defense and the Illini may have opportunity to give the patterns a thorough test Tuesday.

Combes doesn't plan major changes in the starting unit, although junior letterman Jerry Colangelo may get the nod over junior Doug Mills at one guard.

Butler also has a predominately young team. Three lettermen will start—6-3 forward Ken Freeman, 5-9 guard Dick Haslam, and 5-10 guard Larry Ramey. They will be joined by 6-5 junior center Don Wilson and 6-4 junior forward John Weber—both non-lettermen.

Coach Tony Hinkle expects to be handicapped by inexperience and lack of height, but was pleased with the way in which his team disposed of the Badgers in Thursday's opener.

Illini Student Wins AAU Cross Country Honors

CHICAGO (AP)—Harold Harris, University of Illinois student, today won the National AAU Junior cross-country running championship.

Harris was timed in 31:40.6 on the 10,000-meter course at Washington Park. Mauri Jormakka of Eastern Michigan, a Finnish exchange student and runner-up in the meet last year, again was second. His time was 31:46.2.

Third place went to Joe Thomas of Southern Illinois University in 31:55.4. He was followed, in order, by Dave Stern of Northern Illinois; three Southern Illinois harriers, Allan Gelso, James Duprec and Gary Coffman; and Leon Lindquist of Moline.

Rolf Nielsen, a Norwegian attending the University of Wisconsin and the only other foreign runner entered, finished 22nd in the field of 39.

Only four complete teams were entered, the title being won by Southern Illinois with 20 points. The University of Chicago Track Club A team was second with 35 and its B team was third with 75. York Township High of the Chicago area was fourth with 80.

Field Fails To Catch Sam Snead At Palm Beach

By WHITNEY MARTIN

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — They tried to catch old Sam Snead in the third round of the $15,000 West Palm Beach Open golf tournament Saturday, but all they could do was make him run faster.

Snead started Saturday at 138 with a two-stroke lead on the field. When the shooting had ceased, Sam was leading by three strokes with a three-round total 207. He carded a three-under-par 69 Saturday.

In second place was surprising Johnnie Pott of Shreveport, La., who had a five-under-par 67 for the best round of the day and a 210 total.

Art Wall Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., had a great chance to overtake Snead when he went out with a four-under-par 32 after starting the round at 142, four strokes back of Snead. He ran into three bogies in a row on the incoming nine and finished with a 70 in a four-way tie for third place at 212.

Also at 212 is the pretournament favorite, Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., who came through with a 69 Saturday. Bobby Nichols of Midland, Tex., and Jim Ferree of Crystal River, Fla., were the others in the 212 bracket. Ferree had 71 Saturday and Nichols 69.

John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., and George Bayer of South Pasadena, Calif., who were tied for second at the start of Saturday's round at 140, had disastrous days.

Barnum had a 73 and dropped into a tie with Howie Johnson of Coghill, Ill., at 213, and Bayer, who led the opening day play with a 65, blew to a big 78 and a 218 total.

The final 18 holes will be played Sunday.

Financial Aid, Eligibility Requirements Head Big 10 Winter Meeting This Week

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—A full-dress review of the Big Ten's financial aid and eligibility requirements for athletes tops the agenda for the conference's annual winter meetings in Chicago next week.

The sessions start Wednesday and continue through Saturday.

Robert Ray, Iowa's faculty representative, heads a committee that has been studying a financial aid program based on an academic standard rather than the need factor.

For the last four years, aid to prospective athletes has been on a need formula involving parents' incomes.

Last May, the Big Ten gave the green light for a proposal dropping the need factor and substituting academic rank based on entrance examinations, or on being in the upper half of the graduating class.

Just what this academic rank is has yet to be determined. It is thought to involve, if entrance examinations are used, a score of 17 in the American College Testing Program or 750 in a College Entrance Board test. In either case, this would be equivalent to requiring a student to be in the top 78 per cent of college-bound high school seniors.

Under the present Big Ten policy, a student in the upper two-thirds of his class is eligible for financial aid based on need. If he is in the upper one-quarter, he gets a full ride—tuition, room and board, books and other fees—but not $15 a month for incidentals permitted under the NCAA code.

Stanley Kinyon, Minnesota faculty representative, is chairman of a committee that has been working a year on an eligibility program making more definite requirements of normal progress.

The whole emphasis is to gear aid and eligibility requirements on an academic standard that will provide greater assurance that a boy is going to finish school," said assistant commissioner Bill Reed.

Other items on the agenda include reconsideration of a football schedule that would progress to a complete round robin slate by 1969, starting in 1965; and a review of the commissioner's office by a committee headed by V. C. Freeman, Purdue faculty representative.

There also is bound to be informal talks about the possibility of getting back into the Rose Bowl on a conference contract basis.

The round robin football schedule at present is frozen at the 1965-66 timetable which calls for a 10-game slate instead of nine with each team playing seven conference games.

Oilers Try To Wrap Up AFL Division Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Houston Oilers likely will have to depend on rookie Jack Lee again Sunday in their effort to wrap up the American Football League's Eastern Division title.

Lee, who did his pitching for the University of Cincinnati last season, made his first start as a pro two weeks ago because of an injury to regular quarterback George Blanda. He passed the Oilers to two straight victories—22-10 over Denver and 24-10 over Boston—and put them within a game of clinching the Eastern title.

Blanda, still limping badly from the ankle injury, may be ready for spot duty Sunday against the Dallas Texans. But Coach Lou Rykkus probably will have to count on Lee for most of the work.

If the Oilers win this one they're in for the Eastern title. It would give them a 9-3 record with two games to play. The other three Eastern teams already have lost six games each.

Similarly, if Houston beats Dallas and the Los Angeles Chargers would take the Western Division title. That would make it 8-4 for Los Angeles and 5-7 for Oakland and Dallas. The other Sunday games are New York at Denver and Boston at Buffalo.

The National Football League also can wind up one divisional race Sunday and all but end the other. The Philadelphia Eagles can clinch the Eastern title by beating the Cardinals at St. Louis. In the Western Conference now matematically wide open, all but Baltimore and Chicago would be eliminated if the Colts should win from Detroit and the Bears from Green Bay. Other NFL games Sunday are Dallas at New York, San Francisco at Los Angeles and Washington at Cleveland.

Badgers Triumph Over Air Force

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin battled Air Force Academy on even terms the first half of an intersectional basketball game Saturday, then pulled away to take an 80-67 decision.

Dave Vandermeulen sparked the Badgers as they scored nine quick points to gain a 44-34 lead as the second half opened. His 19 points, eleven in the second half, made him the game's leading scorer.

Jim Ulm, the leading Falcon scorer last season, had 16 first half points but was limited to only one field goal the rest of the game.

Legato is the opposite of staccato in music.

Braves Purchase Martin From Reds

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves Saturday purchased Billy Martin, veteran second baseman, from the Cincinnati Reds for $40,000. It was a straight cash deal with no other players involved.

To make room for Martin, the Braves assigned first baseman Frank Torre outright to Louisville of the American Association.

Martin, 32, batted .246 in 103 games with Cincinnati last season. He went to the Reds last spring from Cleveland along with rookies first baseman Gordon Coleman and pitcher in exchange for Johnny Temple.

The announcement was made by John McHale, general manager of the Braves.

Martin, a storm center for years, has been involved in numerous battles on and off the field. His latest escapade was a fight with pitcher Jim Brewer of the Chicago Cubs last summer. Martin stormed to the mound and landed a haymaker on Brewer, breaking his jaw. The Cubs filed a million-dollar suit against Martin. It is still pending.

The Boston Red Sox placed Ted Williams on baseball's voluntarily retired list two days after the American League season ended.

Balanced Scoring And Bench Strength Aids In 57-45 Win For IC

By JACK FAIRFIELD

The Illinois College Blueboys got even scoring from four men plus a fine job of rebounding from the front line to overcome the Rose Poly Tech Engineers Saturday night in a Prairie College Conference match, 57-45. The Blueboys got 13 and 14 points from their two back court men, Jim Costello and Marlin Dawdy and freshman Mike Bandy came off the bench to add 12 as the Blueboys picked up their second win and second in the conference. Bill Schildman got 11 points on 2 buckets and 7 charity tosses and pulled down many an important rebound for I. C.

Rose couldn't hit the basket in the first 20 minutes of play and I.C. took good advantage of it under the leadership of Dawdy. The sophomore guard from White Hall ripped the nets for 11 points on 5 buckets and one free throw in the first half as the Blueboys took a 31-18 lead. Schildman got 8 rebounds in this first period and Bill Burmeier did another fine job on defense.

In this first half Rose Tech went 4 full minutes without a basket and missed many an important free throw.

The Engineers began the second half as if they might make a bid to overtake the Blueboys, and they almost made the grade. Schildman and freshman Wendell Duncan picked up 4 fouls and forced Coach Bill Merris to reduce his height by several inches. Rose Poly got within 6 points of IC with about 9 minutes gone in the second half, but senior Jim Costello got hot and ripped the nets for four quick baskets and pulled the Blueboys out of the fire.

Illinois College is now 2-0 for the young season, while Rose Poly absorbed its second defeat without a win. Coach Bill Merris and the other on lookers were especially enthused by the balanced scoring and apparent bench strength.

A10-Club American League Extending Into Los Angeles In '61 Expected To Evolve

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A 10-club American League extending into Los Angeles in 1961 is expected to evolve from a series of important meetings of feuding baseball officials starting Monday.

Locked in a bitter dispute about territory, the presidents of the two major leagues and Commissioner Ford Frick have hammered out several suggested amendments to baseball's Rule 1 on exclusive rights to territory. The unamended rule requires unanimous approval by all major league clubs to include in one league a city that is in the other.

These amendments, drawn up in New York during a two-day so-called "summit" conference, will be considered by the National and American Leagues at their separate meetings Monday and Tuesday. If they fail to agree, Frick will cast the decisive vote at Wednesday's joint meeting.

Frick and Presidents Joe Cronin of the American League and Warren Giles of the National League have declined comment on the proposals, pending action by their leagues.

The National League has voted to expand to 10 clubs, adding New York and Houston in 1962. The American League has voted to expand to 10 clubs by adding a new Washington franchise and Los Angeles in 1961.

In the face of National League objection by owner Walter O'Malley of the Los Angeles Dodgers, the American offered to settle for nine clubs in 1961 if the National also would become a nine-club league and would agree to an interleague schedule. The National is believed opposed to the nine-club idea.

If the leagues can compromise on an amendment, or if an amendment can be drawn up that Frick will approve, the American plans to go through with its plans to play in Los Angeles next season although no owner has been announced. The only alternative is an eight-club league without any Washington franchise.

Giants Trade Antonelli And Kirkland To Cleveland For Veteran Harvey Kuenn

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The San Francisco Giants Saturday traded southpaw Johnny Antonelli, one-time pitching ace, and Willie Kirkland, hard-hitting outfielder, to the Cleveland Indians for star outfielder and former American League batting champion Harvey Kueen, The Associated Press learned.

Kuenn, unaware of the transaction, is here as AL player representative and member of the Pension Committee to attend meetings Sunday and Monday.

The 2-for-1 interleague transaction involving top-flight performers ranks as one of the most important in recent years and could play a vital role in shaping up the pennant races of both leagues in 1961.

Kuenn figured in one of the biggest trades of the 1960 season when the Indians acquired him from the Detroit Tigers in a straight swap for outfielder Rocky Colavito.

Kuenn, generally regarded as one of the most scientific batters in the game, has been one of the top stars of the American League since he won rookie of the year honors with the Tigers in 1953. He batted .308 that year and topped all shortstops in his league in total fielding chances.

A former University of Wisconsin all-around star, he was given a $55,000 bonus by Detroit in June of 1952.

Antonelli, one of the pitching mainstays of the National League, suffered his poorest season as a Giant last year, winning 6 and losing 7. After a poor start he was relegated to the bullpen where he regained his form in the final months of the campaign.

The 30-year-old left-hander, like Kuenn, was a bonus boy. He was 18 in June of 1948 when the then Boston Braves gave him $65,000 to sign.

Kirkland, 26, last February, batter .252 last season but slammed 21 home runs, 10 triples and 21 doubles.

A strong-armed right fielder, he stole 12 bases, indicating good speed for a 6-foot-1, 212-pounder. In three years with the Giants he has never hit higher than .272 but he owns 57 homers and has driven in 189 runs in that period. He was hitting well over .300 last year until gripped by a severe midseason slump.

SOPHS AID WYOMING

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Sophomores figure to aid Wyoming basketball this season. Al Eastland, 6-foot-8, averaged 20 points a game as a freshman. He's from Moline, Ill. Another highly regarded newcomer is Fred Gish, a 6-foot-4 forward from Cheyenne, Wyo.

Bill De Witt, new general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, passed his Missouri bar examination at Jefferson City in June, 1931.

Routt Whips Franklin In Non-Loop Tilt

FRANKLIN — Coach Bob Winstead's Routt Rockets picked up their third successive win as they downed the Franklin Flashes, 60-38, Saturday night. The Rockets got another sterling performance from senior guard Fred Curtis as the flashy backliner ripped the cords for 24 points.

Routt took a narrow 14-10 edge over Coach Jim Bowers' squad at the end of the first period, but stretched it to a 12 point margin at the half as Franklin could manage only 9 points in the second 8 minutes of play. The Flashes were even weaker in the third quarter as they scored only 5 points against an evidently rugged Rocket defense.

From this point on there was no doubt as to the outcome and Routt finished with the 22 point advantage in the non conference match. Curtis played his usual fine floor game along with kicking in 24 points and Ed Carroll chipped in with a creditable 16. Lawless and Sullivan added 8 apiece for the winning cause and May and Allen were the top point producers for Franklin with 10 each.

Franklin overwhelmed the Routt "juniors" by a 52-36 margin.

Shaw And Eagles Must Defeat Cardinals To Clinch Eastern Title

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

The last time the Philadelphia Eagles and Coach Buck Shaw were in a title game was 1949. The Eagles won and Shaw lost.

Now they'd like to win together, but first they must beat the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday to clinch the Eastern Conference crown in the National Football League. The Eagles are 5-point road favorites to score their ninth straight victory.

That would give Shaw as many victories as he totaled in the past two seasons, his first with the Eagles.

His title game shot was as coach of the San Francisco 49ers in the old All America Conference.

The Cleveland Browns beat the 49ers 21-7 in the AAC's final title game, and the same year in the NFL the Eagles took the crown with a 14-0 victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

In between his time with the 49ers and Eagles, Shaw spent three years as coach at the Air Force Academy. Now the word is he'll retire after this season and would like to do it following a title game victory at Philadelphia Dec. 26.

Over whom?

It could be the Shaw's old club, the 49ers, but right now it seems as if the defending champion Baltimore Colts and the winner of Sunday's Green Bay-Chicago game have the best chances.

The Colts (6-3), with a half-game lead, are 13-point favorites over the visiting Detroit Lions (4-5). At Chicago, the second-place Bears (5-3-1) are 4-point favorites over the Packers (5-4).

The 49ers (5-4) are 4-point underdogs to the Rams (3-5-1) at Los Angeles.

With only two Sundays remaining, losses by the Rams and Lions would mean elimination, and by the 49ers and Packers virtual elimination. Only the Bears, whose tie does not count in the percentages, and the Colts can afford to lose and remain title threats.

With the Eagles needing only one victory in their remaining three games, the Eastern race is to set who goes to Miami Jan. 7 to meet the Western runner-up in the league's new second-place playoff game.

The Cleveland Browns and New York Giants, both 5-3-1, are favored to win Sunday and move toward a Dec. 18 meeting that should decide who finishes behind the Eagles. The Giants are 14-point home favorites over the Dallas Cowboys (0-10), and the Browns rate 15 better than the Washington Redskins (1-6-2) at Cleveland.

The Pittsburgh Steelers (4-5-1) are idle.

In the American League, Los Angeles is at Oakland, New York at Denver, Houston at Dallas and Boston at Buffalo.

MacKay Gets Past Buchholz In Victorian Finals

MELBOURNE (AP) — Barry MacKay lugged out an 8-6, 5-7, 8-6, 6-3 victory over Earl (Butch) Buchholz in the historic all-American final of the Victorian Tennis championships Saturday, but gave the U.S. Davis Cup team a few anxious moments in a nasty spill on the slippery grass court.

Fortunately, with the interzone finals against Italy just five days away, the No. 1 U.S. singles player suffered only a mild groin injury in the fall, which came in the second game of the fourth set.

MacKay, from Dayton, Ohio, shrugged off the injury after the match.

"I'm just a little sore, that's all," he said. "I'll get some heat treatments and will be as good as new. I feel terrific."

It was MacKay's fifth success over Buchholz, the edgy and temperamental youngster from St. Louis.

Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola upset Australia's top pair, Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson for the doubles title. The score was 6-2, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

Circuit Stewards Approve 6-Month Racing Itinerary

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Grand Circuit Stewards, meeting here Saturday, approved a six-month, coast-to-coast harness racing itinerary at 22 tracks for 1961.

They also elected Henry C. Thomson of Delaware, Ohio, as vice president of the organization succeeding the late Joseph A. Neville who promoted the Little Brown Jug pacing classic.

The 1961 schedule in Illinois includes:

Sportsman's Park, Cicero, Aug. 7-12.

Illinois State Fair, Springfield, Aug. 14-18.

DuQuoin State Fair, DuQuoin, Aug. 28-Sept. 1.

Cornell Team Ist In Knox Wrestling Meet

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP) — Cornell College of Iowa took team honors Saturday in the annual Knox College Invitational Wrestling Meet.

Cornell scored 63 points to 45 for second-place Dubuque. Monmouth had 31, Augustana (Ill.) 28, Knox 21, Chicago 21, Coe 20, Grinnell 20, MacMurray 18, Bradley 16 and Illinois Tech 9.

Larry Daley won a third for MacMurray in the 147 pound class as did Gary Bass in the heavyweight division. Robbie Williams gained a fourth in the 157 weight class for Dwaine Marten's grapplers.

The Highlanders had the distinction of losing to those who went on to claim championships in their weight classes.

Heavy Aerial Attack Expected In Blue-Gray

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Plenty of aerial tactics are on tap when two classy squads of college all-stars collide in the annual Blue-Gray football game Dec. 31.

Complete rosters announced Saturday forecast potent passing offensive in a high-scoring thriller, but both teams also pack the power to launch a formidable ground attack if the air lanes fail to pay off.

Led by three talented passing quarterbacks — Georgia's Francis Tarkenton, Norman Snead of Wake Forest and Jerry Elsaman of Kentucky—the Rebels will be after a comeback in the nationally televised clash.

Although the Southerners have won 13 of the 21 games in the intersectional series, they have dropped the last two to rugged Yankee invaders—and this year's Blue team appears no less fearsome.

With such passers as quarterbacks Bernie Allen of Purdue and Dale Betty of Maryland and a brigade of other hard-running backs, the North might pull out an unprecedented third straight victory.

Bustling AFL Finishes Its Draft Monday

DALLAS (AP) — The bustling year-old American Football League, promising more remuneration through competition, finishes its draft here Monday expecting to grab off most of the top talent from the colleges.

"We did better than anyone expected this year," said Commissioner Joe Foss, "and we'll do even better this time in signing our draft choices."

The first six rounds were conducted by telephone last week, leaving 24 to be run off Monday.

"We have room, I would say, for almost as many rookies as we got this year and our clubs are going after them," said Foss.

He cited the fact that the AFL already had 147 rookies on the eight rosters now and that's more than half the total active players.

Broglio, McDaniel To Share Award

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Cardinals' Ernie Broglio and Lindy McDaniel will share the annual award as St. Louis' "baseball player of the year" at the St. Louis Baseball Writers' dinner Jan. 23, it was announced Saturday.

Broglio, a 7-12 flop as a rookie pitcher in 1959, finished with a 21-9 record and a 2.75 earned run average last season. He was beaten out of the ERA title by the Giants' Mike McCormick on the last day of the 1960 season.

McDaniel, the workhorse of the Cards' pitching staff, appeared in 65 games, 63 of them in relief. The bullpen ace had a 12-4 won-lost record and a 2.09 ERA. He was credited with saving 27 games.

CONTENTED FISHERMAN

FALSE CAPE, Va. (AP) — Several years ago when fish started leaving the Chesapeake Bay area for the winter, John Hoke followed them south along the beach—and has never come back. Today, he and three companions live in a beach fishing camp near the Virginia-North Carolina line.

Hoke is a graduate of the University of Virginia, was a football letterman, a Naval officer and a B-17 pilot in World War II.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana University Saturday night won its 13 straight basketball victory, 8063 over Indiana State in the new season's opener.

The tall Hoosiers scored seven points before State's Sycamores got a shot at the basket and had a 37-22 margin at the half.

Walt Bellamy topped Indiana scorers with 20 points and got stout assistance from two promising sophomores.

Tom Bolyard hit 7 of 12 field goal attempts for 14 points. Jimmy Rayl dropped in 6 of 9 long shots for 12 points.

Fullmer Retains Title In Draw With Robinson

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Champion Gene Fullmer, the billy goat belter from Utah, retained his world National Boxing Association middleweight title Saturday night in a 15-round draw with five-time ex-champion Sugar Ray Robinson of New York.

It was a split decision that drew loud reactions from the crowd in the Sports Arena at the end of one of the most vicious and bruising fights seen here in many a night and probably as rough as the 39-year-old Robinson ever weathered in his 20 years in the ring.

Referee Tommy Hart scored it 4-4, Judge George Latka had it 8-8 and Judge Lee Grossman scored it 9 - 5 for Fullmer. Fullmer weighed 159, Robinson 158½.

A crowd estimated at more than 10,000 stood for several minutes after the decision was announced in the nationally televised fight.

The pro-Robinson people outnumbered the Fullmer backers but both fighters, who quit the 15th round bleeding from face wounds, drew boos and cheers.

There were no knockdowns in this third meeting between the two, and the issue is still even—Fullmer won the title from Robinson in 15 rounds Jan. 2, 1957, and Robinson won it back the following May with a fifth-round knockout.

The big round belonged to Robinson. The Harlem dandy put on a spurt in the 4th, 5th and 6th rounds and unquestionably his biggest round was in the bloody 11th.

In the 11th, Robinson rattled numerous rights off the granite-like jaw and chin of Fullmer, and it seemed impossible for the 29-year-old champion from West Jordan, Utah, to survive the attack.

But the raw courage of Fullmer even made the Robinson people cheer him as the bell sounded, and as he even belted away in the final seconds of the round.

There were cries against Fullmer from the Robinson corner that he was holding, but the Robinson camp was also imploring in loud screams for the sugar man to "tie him up, tie him up."

It was hard to say who was tying whom up—but it was certain that Fullmer with his constant attack to the body, as he kept crowding in, was damaging Robinson by eroding his stamina.

Fullmer came up with a slight cut at the corner of his left eye in the first round and he sliced a small gash over the Robinson left eye in the second.

The cuts bothered neither, but in the 11th Robinson smashed open Gene's right eye and possible broke his nose as the blood flowed freely.

In the California scoring system the winner of a round gets from 1 to 5 points, the loser none and the even rounds are scoreless.

The Associated Press had Fullmer ahead, 7-6.

Betters U.S. Swim Marks

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Ray Padovan of Southern Illinois University broke American records in the 50-yard and 100-yard freestyle events Saturday in a dual meet with Indiana University.

The 19-year-old sophomore from Coral Gables, Fla., was timed in 21.8 seconds for the 50-yard freestyle and in 48.4 seconds for the 100-yard event.

The first mark beat the collegiate record of 21.9 set by Fred Westphal of Wisconsin in 1959, and tied by R. Bruce Hunter of Harvard at Dallas, Tex., last March 25.

Padovan's 100-yard time bettered the mark of 48.6 set by Hunter last March 5 at New Haven, Conn.

Despite Padovan's records, Indiana — considered the nation's best college swimming team — took 7 of 11 firsts and won the meet 63-32.

Monmouth Bows To Carleton

NORTHFIELD, Minn. (AP) — A flurry of free throws by John Lundsten rescued Carleton in the last three minutes Saturday and the Carls downed Monmouth 71-67 in a Midwest Conference basketball game.

Monmouth outscored Carleton 10-1 over one stretch late in the game to draw into a 61-61 tie. But Lundsten pitched in three straight free throws and the Carls protected the lead thereafter.

Lundsten and John Lufkin each collected 16 points for Carleton. Clair McRoberts led Monmouth with 23. The victory squared Carleton's league mark at 1-1. Monmouth is 0-2.

St. Olaf Tops Knox Five, 66-45

NORTHFIELD, Minn. (AP) — St. Olaf, exploiting Knox's frigid shooting, romped to a 66-45 Midwest Conference basketball victory Saturday.

The Oles beat Monmouth in their conference opener Friday night, 71-61.

With Knox hitting only 5 of 30 shots from the field in the first half, St. Olaf rolled to a 30-21 lead and stretched it to as much as 25 points in the second half.

Karl Groth, only player to score in double figures, bagged 22 points for St. Olaf. Dan Littell had eight for Knox.

Spartans Stop Butler, 77-71

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State opened its basketball season Saturday night by defeating Butler 77-71 in overtime.

The Spartans, who finished eighth in the Big Ten last season, held a 35-27 lead at halftime, but Butler closed the gap to 46-43 with seven minutes gone in the second half.

Butler tied the score 63-63 in the final nine seconds, sending the game into overtime.

Dave Fahs, one of the two returning Spartan lettermen, made five of MSU's 14 points in the overtime.

Fahs and Art Schwarm, the other letterman, and sophomore Dave Hall, scored 14 points each for MSU. Dick Halam, also with 14 points, led Butler's scoring.

An Injured Gray Wants To Play Against Eagles

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ken Gray, his dislocated shoulder supported by a tight harness, wants to play his regular offensive guard position Sunday when the St. Louis football Cardinals try to derail the Philadelphia Eagles.

The 6-2, 235-pound lineman, whose physical statistics call to mind anything but the picture of a chronic casualty, has been ailing off and on for most of the season. He was hurt in the Cards' first game on Oct. 2 against the New York Giants.

After four weeks out of action, Gray went back to the lineup against New York when the Cards upset them. Again he was hurt.

Since the second run-in with the Giants, Gray has been in and out of play, missing last week's tie with the Cleveland Browns.

Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy said, "It's quite a tribute to him that he wants to play. I know it hurts when he hits someone."

The disabled Cardinals could use Gray's services Sunday when they plant themselves in front of the Eagles' championship express. The Philadelphia entry needs only one victory to clinch the Eastern Division title.

Lanphier Holds Jacks To 10 Points In Last Period To Gain Win

By STAN SPOTTS

Jacksonville High's Crimsons gave the first three quarters all they had but they ran out of steam in the final canto and Arlyn Lober's Lanphier Lions carried home a 61-53 victory from the JHS Bowl Saturday night.

Bench strength provided the winners their second triumph in as many starts as the Lions substituted early because of the fouls heaped on the front line men. The contest produced a total of 45 fouls—24 on the Lions and 21 against the Jacks.

After a gallant attempt for 24 minutes of play Coach John Chapman's Crimsons had to settle for their second loss in three starts and all because they hit a scoring snag of only 10 points in the final quarter. But then again if it hadn't been for free throws in the second half, Jacksonville would have lost by more than eight points which was the biggest lead of the ball game.

JHS matched field goals with the Lions in the first half with 10 and while the losers managed only seven in the final two periods, Lanphier was collecting 11.

Both quintets sank the same number of charity tosses, each with 19 but the Crimsons missed 15 while Lanphier failed in 11 attempts.

The Lions jumped off to an early lead on Art Meyer's three point play but the Jacks battled back to see the lead twice on buckets by Rich Sweeney. The score was 14-all after eight minutes of play on a free throw by Sweeney with 0:21 showing.

Lanphier enjoyed a five point lead once in the second period but couldn't maintain it. Jacksonville also saw the lead twice in this frame on free throws by Gerry Spangenberg and John Wargs but a Giffigan layup with 0:31 remaining before halftime offset the latter's efforts and the visitors led by one at intermission, 30-29.

Jacksonville never saw the lead in the third chapter although it managed to even things at 34-all before Lanphier surged ahead to garner a six point lead with 2:15 left to play, 40-34. Again the Crimsons rallied to trail by two after three quarters, 45-43, with Ron Tomhave's three point play narrowing the deficit.

The Lions maintained their lead throughout the final canto and were only pressed once. That came with 6:58 remaining via a Sweeney free throw to make it 48-46, but from there on it was all Lanphier's Mike Gaffigan and Tim Blanco, each with six points.

Gaffigan led the Lion scorers with 13 points while Sweeney had as many for the Chapman five.

85 State Troopers In District 9 Get Safe Driver Awards

Eighty-five state troopers from District 9, Illinois State Police, have been awarded the National Safety Council's Safe Driver Award, the nation's highest award for professional safe driving performance. This information was released Saturday by Captain Jack Lindeen, Commanding Officer of the District, which includes Morgan and adjacent counties. Many state troopers from this area were commended.

In announcing the awards, William H. Morris, Superintendent of the Illinois State Police, commended the troopers for their outstanding safety performance and said "this demonstration of safety is a further expression of why Illinois is achieving its fifth consecutive year of traffic death reduction with one of the finest state police forces in the nation."

A total of 1075 state police among fourteen districts, the toll road battalion and central office, are receiving the awards, 128 of whom have driven state owned motor vehicles for ten years without a single chargeable traffic accident. Morris indicated that this example of expert driving is a challenge to all motorists in the state in avoiding accidents, saying "this is proof that accidents can be avoided by applying defensive driving techniques such as our troopers are required to do."

Collectively, state troopers throughout Illinois drive a total of in excess of thirty-five million miles in the performance of their duties, over a variety of roads in all kinds of weather during the fiscal year, 1959-60, without an accident.

In District No. 9, troopers won the awards for multiple years' safe driving performance.

Recovery Of Hunting Items Spurs Search For 3 Missing Men

Rescue workers dragging the Mississippi River for the fourth straight day Saturday were encouraged in their efforts to locate the bodies of three Jacksonville men missing since Tuesday when several personal items were recovered. An estimated twenty-five Jacksonville area residents joined the search Saturday and aided in recovering the items.

The missing men are Gary Birdsong, 24; William McGrath, 32, and Charles N. McGrath, 27, brothers.

Workers got their first lead of the day when a boot and suspender were recovered by dragging crews and identified as belonging to the men. The boot was identified as one of the McGath brothers' and the suspender was believed to have come from a pair of waders worn by Gary Birdsong.

Further probings recovered a shot gun and case, a metal box described as being similar to a roller skating case in which two thermos bottles and a quantity of shells were found, and a small oil heater.

All of these articles were recovered in the same general area approximately 200 yards from where a hunting dog was found a few days ago on an island in the river. Preliminary and unofficial reports indicated the trio may have placed their boat in the water from a landing somewhat north of the Clarksville, Mo., dam and headed north to an island roughly estimated to be about a mile from the dam. Saturday's findings would seem to indicate the boat overturned and sank as the party neared the island.

Approximately fifty men joined in Saturday's search as more than a dozen boats plied the river in the monotonous dragging process. Workers encouraged by their findings kept at the job until late Saturday night. The area where the articles were recovered Saturday was marked with a buoy and searchers will resume efforts there this morning.

Members of the fire department who aided in the day-long search Saturday were Chief Byron Holkenbrink, Alvin Smith, Harvey Dean, Bud Sullivan, Edward Breakville and Ronnie Spangenberg.

A note of appreciation was expressed Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Gene Graves of Jacksonville who have spent the better part of two days servicing the boats at the scene. Graves is in charge of boats at the Jacksonville Boat Dock.

A number of the members of the three families are keeping constant vigil at the river where a house trailer has been moved in for their convenience. The Red Cross is also using the trailer for a headquarters for aiding the workers.

Jacksonville firemen have donated a sum of $35 to the McGath and Birdsong families to purchase food and supplies for use at the scene of the rescue efforts.

Among relatives who have arrived here for the search are Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Birdsong of Arkansas, parents of Gary Birdsong; and his brothers, Charles, Carthel and J. D. Birdsong.

Start Massive Hunt For Killing, Kidnaping Clues

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The first massive hunt for a clue in the week-old killing of a young collegian and disappearance of his pretty coed date, got under way on a fog-shrouded hillside Saturday.

The Multnomah County sheriff's office, determined to cover a section of forested hills of 60 square miles near the slaying scene, called for 400 volunteers.

Estimates of the number who turned out, dozens of them on horseback, ranged up to 600. They came from miles around. Each was assigned to a patrol headed by a deputy who had been briefed Friday on what to look for.

Missing is blue-eyed, brown-haired Beverly Ann Allan, 19, Port Townsend, Wash., a Washington State University student. She was the companion of Ralph Larry Peyton, 19, Portland, whose stabbed, beaten body was found in his car on a lovers' lane in rough hills northwest of here last Sunday night.

Presumably he had been set upon, police think by at least two men, as he and the girl sat in the car. Her purse and coat were in the car, her broken glasses and a necklace were on the ground outside.

The only blood in the car and nearby was Peyton's, said the State Crime Laboratory.

There was no trace of the knife that stabbed the Portland State College student 23 times, nor was there a sign of a gun. The car windshield had a bullet hole.

RUSSIAN RAILROAD EXPERTS TOUR U.S.

CHICAGO (AP)—Ten Russian railroad experts, headed by B. Beschev, minister of transportation of the Soviet Union, gave the North Western Railway's new push-pull commuter train operation a thorough going-over Saturday.

The group is touring the United States to study American rail facilities. Last month, U.S. railroad men made a similar trip to inspect Russian railroads.

Frank Koval, North Western director of commuter service, took the Russians on a tour of an eight-car double-end train of two deck accommodations.

"They made an expert inspection," Koval said

One of the Russians indicated some doubt that they were being shown commuter equipment.

"You say that the cars are air conditioned for carrying people just into and out of the city—to and from work?" he asked.

Point Of Order

The 1960 census produced no surprise when it disclosed that an increasing proportion of Americans are living today in urban areas. It's a long-term trend and it will go on running for decades to come.

Since this country is therefore more and more an urbanized society, we must face with some discomfort the fact that our cities and suburbs are badly disorganized places to live.

Few cities were well planned to begin with, or have managed to impose effective plans in their later development. But virtually all are now engulfed by new population waves that would stagger even the best laid plans.

In the worst of circumstances, life in some of our cities has thus taken on what one economist has described as an "unhinged" quality. Chaos and confusion are the rule.

Traffic is in turmoil. Public places often are overrun with pushing, shoving throngs. Neither manners nor other elemental disciplines appear to prevail. Crime and corruption are more common than ever.

The really damaging aspect of all this is that after a time it comes to be widely viewed as "natural." The attitude grows that confusion and planlessness and lack of discipline are normal.

As this is the age of the excuse, when failure is presented as little different from success by some apologists for the "easy way," so it is the time of doing what comes naturally.

The disorderliness of so many of our cities is consequently accepted as inevitable, as proof to some that people are being accorded their proper freedom from restraint.

But if it is natural to seek free rein, to move in some disorder, it is also preeminently human to establish patterns of order that make our collective life more manageable, more meaningful and more richly satisfying.

Human achievement demands that men have a sense of order about their affairs. Since so many Americans now live in or near cities, they cannot hope to measure up to their fullest stature if they are to be caught up constantly in chaos.

That chaos is natural only if men are viewed through the narrowest lens. The really great thing about them is their capacity to function almost without limit, to use their distinctive brains to force their will upon the world about them—to shape and plan their destinies in good order.

When they can do that consistently in the complex city civilization of today, then they will truly be doing what comes naturally.

Wishful Thinking

France's milk-instead-of-wine campaign was in the news of a few years ago. Apparently it made little change in the drinking habits of Frenchmen. Now the emphasis is on soda pop. In its drive to get people to drink more non-alcoholic beverages, the government has also lowered taxes on them and stopped the production of hip flasks, among other things. They have not, however, yet been able to stop the sun from shining on the French vineyards.

"You Can Use Me for a Bridge Any Time"

The World Today

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

President-elect John F. Kennedy focused national attention at a critical moment upon the battle ahead in Africa.

His appointment of Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams as assistant secretary of state for Africa comes amid indications from the huge continent that the Congo situation has aroused fear and suspicion of Communist intentions This is detectable even among leaders who consider themselves leftist and who are loud in their condemnation of the West.

If this is so, there is a chance that black Africa soon will simmer down, at least sufficiently to give its leaders a chance to assess cautiously what may lie ahead.

This by no means softens the warning by Sen. Kennedy that "the fate of Africa, which is now the object of a giant Communist offensive, will affect vitally the security of every citizen of the United States. There is no easy solution in store for black Africa's problems. It will remain the arena for a grim cold war struggle.

But it will be important for Americans if African leaders realize that there is more than one kind of outside domination. The Africans are familiar with the sort which came from Europe and which has just about been consigned forever to history. Africans have had no experience with modern Communist colonialism which surrenders none of the vast territories it has conquered.

The Congo remains a key to Africa's immediate future. There is little hope for stability while superimpatient African leaders look upon Red interference in the Congo as an instrument to further their own ambitions.

But Westerners who know Africa say what has been going on among its new nations has been a sort of flexing of muscles in a contest to determine which will emerge as the leading influence in the continent.

Probably, in the long run, neither Ghana nor Guinea, which seem to be in the forefront of that contest, will be strong enough to occupy the role. The emergence of Nigeria is among factors working against the pretensions of the other two to leadership. Indeed, Nigeria can turn out to be, eventually, a significant force for stability in African politics.

Undoubtedly most young African leaders are impatient to erase all traces of European colonialism. Britain and France, the major colonial powers, aware that the old sort of imperialism is dead, have been seeking to bridge the colonial era and independence.

Moscow wants no such bridge. Immediate independence for all dependent areas would suit Moscow's purposes, since it would foretoken chaos, confusion and rivalries.

Africans may be tumbling to this. One indication is a recent Asian-African resolution in the U. N. which, thought it seeks the end of colonialism makes its demand read "quick steps toward" independence. The word "toward" suggests Africans, too, see a need for a bridge, in the light of the Congo experience. The resolution probably jolted Moscow.

Whatever rival muscle-flexing is going on in Africa, whatever designs leaders like Sekou Toure of Guinea or Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana may have had in the Congo, there seems a hint now that they look upon all this as an African affair and not the business of a gigantic Soviet power thousands of miles away.

This can suggest to the Kennedy administration that the patterns of African development are far from frozen and that there is reason to hope the continent's leaders will attempt to find their own way, independent of outside domination.

FINDING THE WAY

The Lost Dimension

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D
Written For NEA

"My parents read their Bibles when they went to bed. They knelt in prayer asking God's forgiveness for their lives. When they awoke in the morning they knelt asking for God's guidance."

The speaker looked about thoughtfully and continued:

"Today I listen to the 11 o'clock news report and tumble into bed In the morning I reach for the newspaper. Instead of asking for guidance, I say, 'What a mess of a world.' Instead of asking God's forgiveness, I say, 'What a gang of sinners in the world.'"

Obviously there is a difference in the social setting of our generations and that of our grandparents. Two wars, a depression, and a world in which crisis seems to have become permanent have produced a new environment. To this has been added rootlessness.

Some few years ago I was called to visit a patient in Walter Reed Hospital in Washington. He had been stationed at a nearby military installation in training for mine detection. Something had gone wrong, there had been an explosion, and now he was irreparably blind.

He had phoned me, not to weep over his tragedy, but to find guidance for his new world. He had been taught verses of Scripture as a child and now he discovered that he wanted to recover their meaning for his life.

His request was simply that I walk with him across the campus from time to time, recalling passages of great significance in order that he might have some eternal word for his present crisis.

No man can adequately foresee the events which are ahead. To lament change and to decry the present is to chafe at situations which demand more creative thinking. They demand that we should have stored up a trove of spiritual understanding across the years.

After all, it was to a rootless people that we owe many of these insights into life. To such nomadic peoples came the revelation of the Ten Commandments.

It was from people who were uncertain of their own roots in the things of this world that the prophets came to those who had tried to root into the security of the present.

It was a Man whom others described as one who knew not where to lay his head who gave us the Sermon on the Mount. Maybe we've had our roots in the wrong soil.

We need something at the beginning and ending of each day besides the contemporary scene.

A long time ago there lived a man by the name of Hosea. He had a rough time of it, experiencing enough to make a man bitter. In that moment he reached into his storehouse of spiritual understanding, speaking of a valley of troubling as a door of hope.

This could happen to us now if we recover some lost dimensions, letting something eternal come to us in the beginning and in the ending of the day.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

(AP) Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Whither "Wagon Train?"

That question has been asked ever since the high-ranking Western lost its wagonmaster with the sudden death of Ward Bond four weeks ago. Now comes Bond's co-star and scout, Robert Horton, with an inkling of what the future will hold.

"I have an idea we'll finish out this season without replacing Bond," said Horton. "We still have five pictures in which he appears, and that should carry us through the next two months.

"I'll be doing more than my usual share, and we'll probably make use of the two other continuing characters, the wagonmaster's right-hand man, played by Terry Wilson, and the cook, played by Frank McGrath.

"This week, Terry is doing a show, the first one in the series in which neither Bond nor I appear. They did one in the first year with Ralph Meeker and neither of us, but later some scenes of Ward were injected."

And what of next season?

"I'm sure we'll get another wagonmaster," Horton remarked. "They have talked to me about taking over the role and hiring another actor as scout. I wouldn't do it.

"If there were a scene on the trail where the wagonmaster died and I had to take over his job, I would agree. But I don't think it makes sense for me to do it permanently. I think the public expects a more mature man — A father image, if you will—in the role. I think I'm too young to qualify.

"It's hard to say who would be able to do it. The part requires a man who is mature, yet robust enough to do the physical aspects convincingly. I think they're going to have a very rough time replacing Bond."

"The last time I saw Ward was the Thursday night before he died," Horton recalled. "I finished working late, and was walking past his dressing room when he called me; I didn't realize he was still there.

"He was a little drunk, and he always treated me nicer when he was drunk. We had done a tough show and he was complaining that the company would have to buy a prompter for him if such difficult scripts continued. I told him, 'We've had our differences, but we agree on those scripts.'

"I turned to go and as I reached the door, he said, 'Bobby'—the first time he had ever called me that. Then he added, 'We have no differences.' Those were the last words he said to me, and I'm glad that's how we parted."

Goals For Americans
Bolstering Japan and India

By DR. WILLIAM L. LANGER
Professor of History
Harvard University

One of a series of easy-to-read condensations from chapters written by eminent American authorities for book publication by Prentice - Hall with the Report from President Eisenhower's Commission on National Goals. Edited by Ray Cromley for Newspaper Enterprise Assn. (Copyright 1960, the American Assembly.)

From the American standpoint Japan is as important for the defense of the free world in Asia as Germany in Europe.

Japan is a key bulwark against Communist domination of all Asia. It is therefore a prime interest of the United States to contribute in every way possible to the maintenance of close military, economic and cultural ties.

Fortunately a large majority of the population appreciates the need for the alliance with the United States if Japan is to hold its own against growing Communist power. But there is a genuine danger lest extremists on the right as well as on the left regain their influence through economic stringency or through inept handling of their susceptibilities on the part of the United States.

Since the prosperity of Japan hinges on its foreign trade, the United States should help faciliate Japanese trade relations not only with the free nations of Asia but also with Europe and American countries.

The United States should devote continuing attention to the promotion of understanding with Japan and to the development of common interests. For example, the close association of Japan with plans for aid to the less developed countries of South and Southeast Asia would make for constant, intimate co-operation.

Japan, despite its success in reducing the birth rate and relieving the population pressure for the future, is still an over-populated country and depends for its well-being on an active and extensive foreign trade.

In the past China was one of the largest and most profitable markets for the products of Japanese industry. It is therefore natural that there should be forces in present-day Japan working for an accommodation with Communist China that would reopen the continent to Japanese trade.

While there is but little support for communism in Japan, there has developed a strong pacifist and neutralist attitude, encouraged in the period of the occupation by American policy. As the one nation that has actually suffered atomic attack and is at the same time particularly exposed to the fallout resulting from Soviet nuclear tests, the Japanese as a people are passionately opposed to the new weapons and to every aspect of nuclear war. The growth of neutralist sentiment has led to noisy agitation against the alliance with the United States and to opposition to the use of Japanese bases for purpose of nuclear warfare.

India, though not definitely aligned with the nations of the free world, has, however, chosen the democratic road. Its example is crucial to the further development of representative institutions in other Asian countries.

It is therefore in the interest of the United States to lend India sympathy and support.

The problem of economic development in India is of such magnitude that large-scale assistance on a long-term basis is indispensable. For the sake of the huge Indian population as for the safeguarding of free institutions in Asia, the United States should continue to give unstinting, long-term economic and technical aid.

At the same time the United States should use its influence in behalf of compromise in the dispute between India and Pakistan over Kashmir, and should give India all appropriate diplomatic support in resisting the territorial claims of Communist China in the Himalayan area.

The situation in Southeast Asia is at best precarious. Several of the states are united in defensive alliance with the United States and other nations of the free world. These states, for the most part newly independent, lack stability and power and are directly exposed to Communist pressure and subversion.

The United States has a genuine interest in aiding them to organize and strengthen their military defense and at the same time contributing to the establishment and development of representative institutions by providing economic and technical support.

The military resources of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization are necessarily limited. The future of the area will therefore depend largely on the increase of stability through prosperity and confidence.

Making Aged Feel Wanted Is Theme of New Book

BY MARIE DAERR

"If an aging person doesn't want to make a change (in living arrangements) and resists it with all his might, it may be more economical in terms of eventual strains to help him stay where he is, even if dollars-and-cents expenditure or anxiety on your part for his welfare will be greater."

This is one of the helpful tips on how to help older people in "You and Yours," by Julietta K. Arthur. I recommend this newly published, pocket-sized book for down-to-earth advice on a wide variety of problems which the older person, and those who are concerned with his happiness, face.

"We need to learn that where a person lives or with whom is not the major consideration in old age," the author writes. "Making him know he is valued for what he is and was is all that really counts.

"You can do this through such a simple gesture as asking an old man to write down the family history or memories of his early days, or making an old woman feel you cherish the family heirlooms as much as she does."

If the best solution to the where-to-live problem is having the older person live with you, make your weapons "understanding, affection, even sternness, if that is needed to make an old man or woman learn to use crutches or a brace," the author advises.

If grandpa lives with you and becomes ill, remember that the best place for him to get well is the place he is used to—home.

"You may be the anxious type who feel that if grandpa slips on a banana peel and fractures his shoulder his old bones will mend more quickly in a hospital," Mrs. Arthur writes. "Grandpa may think you are simply trying to get rid of him, or shrinking from the trouble of taking care of him. Worse yet, he may think he is so seriously ill you are shipping him off to die."

Tips on home care of the invalid and health rules to help any older person avoid the abnormalities of senility follow. So do chapters on "Financing Old Age," "To Work or Not to Work" and "Active Leisure: New Ways for Old."

Hints to the job-hunting older person include: "A young person can tramp around all day and look and feel as fresh as when he started. An older person ought to stop when he feels tired or discouraged. If he doesn't, his fatigue or his down-heartedness will show in his walk or his demeanor."

Mrs. Arthur also has chapters on what can be done to help the older person who chooses to stay alone in his own home and on how to prepare him for a change, when change becomes necessary.

FRIGHTENING PET

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — George Bouchard, 13, didn't mean to disturb anyone. He just wanted three rolls of pennies.

But when bank teller Peggy McClure looked up and saw George at her window, she screamed and backed away.

George was wearing a 4-foot-9 inch king snake around his neck. Mrs. McClure refused service to George until the snake was removed.

The youth handed the snake to his 11-year-old sister while he completed his business transaction.

matter of FACT

For years, when New Yorkers complained about the weather, old-timers would recall the "blizzard of '88." More than 200 died in the storm. The new generation recalls "the snow of 1947" when the city was covered by a 26-inch blanket in 24 hours. This eclipsed the old three-day record of 1888 by almost five inches.

Thawed Frozen Turkey Is NOT to Be Sold as 'Fresh'

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Food and Markets Editor

From now until Christmas is a season of heavy turkey buying. But not all merchants are overstuffed with good will to men. A little kitchen arithmetic proves that point. According to the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, 80 per cent of the turkeys on the market are frozen. However, a recent survey of housewives reveals that more than 50 per cent of them say they always buy their turkeys fresh. Not frozen. Which simply, simply could not be.

Although no one in official position will say so publicly, there is a strong suspicion that some butchers and supermarkets buy frozen turkeys, then thaw them and display at "fresh" birds.

Otherwise, they ask, how could there be enough so-called "fresh" turkeys to supply the demand for 50 per cent fresh when 80 per cent of the industry is geared to producing only frozen birds?

There are two jokers in this situation. First, fresh turkeys sell for up to 7 cents more a pound than frozen ones. Second, housewives often buy fresh turkeys to freeze at home for future use. But a frozen turkey, once thawed, cannot be safely re-frozen.

What to do about it? Deal only with reliable markets and butchers in whom you have confidence Ask the butcher: "Is this REALLY a fresh turkey, or a frozen one that has been thawed?" Investigate a movement to have turkeys carry an official U.S. Dept. of Agriculture grade tag that identifies all turkeys as either "fresh" or "frozen."

Corn Contest Winner

BUELL SMITH of Winchester High school won the Section 15, F.F.A., corn growing contest sponsored annually by the Pioneer seed corn company. Ninety-one vocational agriculture students in Morgan, Scott, Greene, Jersey, Macoupin and Calhoun counties competed this year.

Smith made the highest yield, 125.2 bushels per acre with Pioneer 321.

The company furnished the seed free of charge and each project was under the supervision of the vocational agriculture instructor. Smith also won the $25 cash prize offered annually. His project was supervised by Willit S. Pierce.

The seven acre alfalfa field was fall plowed, disced twice and harrowed once before being planted at the rate of 18,500 plants per acre. Good weed control was obtained by two cultivations. On Oct. 25 the yield was checked by the Winchester F.F.A. chapter, and reduced to No. 2 corn.

There were 2,705 boys entered in the Illinois contest. James Cutton of Brimfield, Peoria County, was the winner, with a yield of 214.5 bushels with Pioneer 321.

Rural Credit Co-Op Reports Active Year

Nearly 200 farmer-members of the Jacksonville Production Credit association attended the 27th annual meeting held Thursday at the Masonic Temple.

The owners of the short-term credit cooperative learned that business was extremely good during the past year, but that all costs, and particularly the cost of borrowed money, jumped during the year and net profits were about the same.

A peak of $2,519,522 in loans outstanding was struck on Sept. 30.

The officers noted that the cost of money had declined some in recent months and that the board expected to reduce the current 6½% interest rate to 6% soon. The annual 4% dividend on Class A stock was declared.

A turkey dinner was served at noon. Lyndle Symons and a group of his students presented a musical program.

Two directors, Alfred R. Dick of Beardstown and Arthur C. Wilson of Murrayville, were reelected to serve three year terms. Holdover board members are Leroy Castle, Bluffs; Irving Brown, Oakford, and Roy Newbery, Jacksonville.

President Castle and Secretary Glenn Spencer gave their annual reports during the day. The speakers were Roger Olson of Kordite, who discussed the manufacture of polyethylene and its uses, and Dr. Richard Nesmith, head of the sociology department of MacMurray College. He reviewed the current problems of rural communities and what might be done to alleviate them.

The tables were decorated with poinsettias, which were presented to C. D. Kenny, Franklin; Mrs. William Jackson, Virginia; Edward Wellenkamp, Beardstown; Lester Reed, Jacksonville; Mrs. Elmer Jurgens, Ashland; E. C. Masten, Chandlerville; Mrs. Russell Duncan, Manchester; Howard Buhlig, Naples; R. E. Stocker, Murrayville, and Mrs. Frank Newberry, Jacksonville.

HISTORY, RUSSIA-AND U. S. DOLLAR

Monetary devaluation is a practice that is about as old as recorded history. It became much more important when nations shifted from silver and gold coins to paper currency and bank deposits. Silver and gold were precious metals. Their value, like that of wheat and cattle, was inherent in the products themselves, not dependent upon a king's promise to pay. No king or other government could create silver and gold.

Paper money and bank deposits can be created in unlimited amounts. Restrictions are, of course, provided by laws, but the laws can always be changed, or ignored in some cases.

Governments are often forced to create excessive amounts of paper currency and bank deposits by wartime needs or excessive demands from the public.

Notable excesses in American history include the issuance of "continentals" during the Revolutionary War and the Confederate currency and "greenbacks" during the Civil War.

The continentals were finally redeemed at one cent on the dollar. For a time they were worth even less. This experience gave us our expression, "not worth a continental!"

The Confederate currency became valuable only as collectors' items, while the greenbacks were eventually restored to face value.

All Over The World

During and after World War II, an epidemic of inflation and devaluation swept through Europe and other countries. The United States resisted devaluation longer than most other countries, but succumbed in 1933. At that time the U.S. dollar was devalued to 59 percent of its former gold content. This is the basis for the expression, the "59-cent dollar."

Since then inflation and devaluation have occurred in many countries.

Russia recently announced plans to devalue the ruble, but tried to make it appear as a devaluation of the U. S. dollar. This was accomplished by two orders. The first will change the official exchange rate from 25 cents per ruble to $1.11 per ruble. This appears to cut the value of the dollar to 22½ percent of its former value. It raises the nominal gold equivalent of the ruble to nearly 4½ times its former level—but Russia does not exchange gold for rubles.

But here is the gimmick: A second order will cause all money, wages, prices, savings, debts and accounts in Russia to be divided by 10! This will make the ruble worth 10 times as much as it is now for trade within Russia. But the gold value will be increased only 4½ times. The net result appears to be a devaluation of Russian currency by more than 50 percent in comparison with the U. S. dollar, the English pound, the German mark and all other currencies based on gold.

Poised Against U. S.

It is difficult to forecast the effects of these new Russian moves. One thing can be sure: they are not intended to aid the United States.

Taken at face value, the moves would cut the price of Russian wheat, lumber and other products offered for export to other countries. This would put more pressure on the U. S. dollar and our gold reserves.

But all Russian exports are made by the government, at prices fixed by the government. In many cases exports are part of barter deals, with no money changing hands. Thus we will have to wait and see what happens. The moves may be planned as battles in Russia's economic war against the United States and the West.

Paul Ames New Fieldman For Staley Hatchery

Jerre Staley of Staley Hatchery, Modesto, Ill., announces he has obtained the services of Paul F. Ames, Franklin, as his sales and service man for Sangamon, Morgan and Macoupin Counties, and adjoining areas.

Mr. Ames has had 25 years of experience in the poultry industry. He was graduated from the University College of Agriculture at Madison, Wis., and managed a hatchery in Jacksonville for four years before going into the poultry and farming business for himself in 1940. Mr. Ames now owns 150 acres and rents 53 acres known as the Jolly-Ames Farm. For eight years he was an instructor in the Waverly and Franklin High schools, teaching G. I. Agriculture.

While working for Staley Hatchery, Ames will manage his farm with custom operators and maintain his flock of 1000 hens.

Boost Payments For ACP Work During 1961

The pressures of continuing inflation were noted last week when the Morgan County Agriculture Conservation Program committee drew up the 1961 docket, which provides for increased payments to cooperating farmers.

For example, the ACP now pays $1.70 per ton of applied agricultural limestone. The 1961 schedule provides $1.80, and 45c per hundredweight of rock phosphate as compared for the present payment of 40c.

Comparable increases were made by the local committee for terraces, structures, contoured fields, tile outlets, legume plantings, etc.

The new scale of payments has been sent to the state office for approval.

Office Manager Wallace T. Hembrough stressed that ample funds are now available for any ACP practices that can be completed by Dec. 31. Application should be made promptly at the local ASC office.

On Monday the 1961 program will be discussed at a regional meeting to be held in Vandalia. Representing this county will be Farm Adviser George Trull, Conservationist Joe Graham, Wilbur Williams, chairman of the Morgan County committee, Office Manager Hembrough and Mrs. Helen Jackson, ACP clerk.

Over 250,000 bushels of new corn have been approved for the $1.08 support loan so far this year. About three-fourths of the samples tested were dry enough to qualify. Wet corn may be rechecked within 30 days.

About half of the wheat fields have been measured so far and Hembrough hopes to have this task completed by the end of the month.

FAIR ASSOCIATION TO MEET MONDAY

Stockholders and friends of the Morgan County Agricultural Fair association are invited to attend the annual meeting, which will be held at Farm Bureau hall Monday, Dec. 5. An oyster supper will be served at 6 p.m.

Robert Houston, president, will preside at the business meeting.

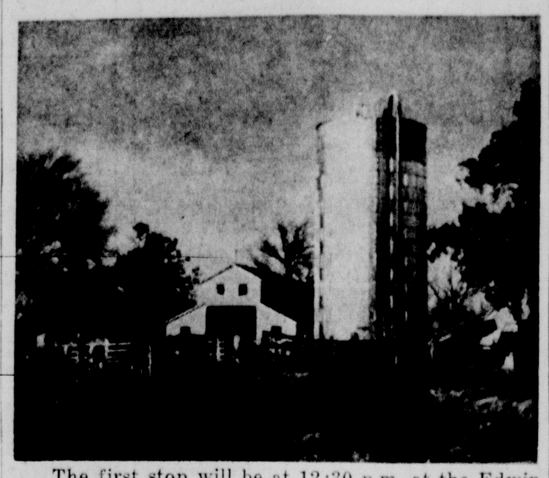
Farm Tour To Stress Handling Wet Corn

Three farms in the Concord area will be visited Friday afternoon in a tour arranged by the Morgan County Extension Council. The visitors will have an opportunity to investigate the handling and feeding of high moisture corn and everybody interested is invited to attend, says Farm Adviser George Trull.



The first stop will be at 12:30 p.m. at the Edwin Deitrick farm a mile south of Concord, to see a beef cattle feeding operation. A new steel sealed tank for storing shelled corn has a capacity of about 14,000 bushels. This year corn carrying as much as 25-30% moisture has been stored in the tank.

At 1:15 p.m. the group will move to the Wilbur Zulauf Farm, three miles east of Concord, where he is feeding 282 head of beef cattle. The installation features two Harvestores, with automatic feeding equipment. The giant tanks are filled with grass and corn silage, and corn silage fortified with shelled corn.

At 2:15 p.m. a corn drying unit on the Virgil Wegehoft farm, one and a half miles north and a mile east of Concord, will be examined. It has a capacity of 4,400 bushels, with a butane burning dryer. This season Wegehoft dried 11,000 bushels of corn, most of it in batches of about 1,000 bushels each.

Two well known University of Illinois agricultural specialists, Harry Russell of the animal science department and Frank Andrew of the agricultural engineering department, will accompany the tour. They will also answer questions when the group assembles for doughnuts and coffee at Morgan Hall, Concord, at 3 p.m.

I See It

by E. W. BROWN

It seems the legal profession is finally planning to do something about its complicated language. Though most fields these days have modernized their ways with words, the folks who handle the legal end of things have been reluctant to bring their ancient lingo up to date. American law-talk was borrowed from the old English system and apparently hasn't been revised since the loan took place some 200 years or so ago. Some cynics say the reason they've never made legal language clearer is they're afraid folks would understand what they're talking about. But slow as it's been in coming, the change seems about to come to pass at last. Why now? Because, like other fields, the law-folk now want to take advantage of new electronic computing and data-sorting machines . . . and the way legal-lingo is set up now, the machines can't understand it!

Mulching Corn Field Saves Soil, Water

ACROSS THE Fields AND Furrows

with ED GARLICH

Mulching corn fields is a growing conservation practice in this area, reports Joe Graham of the Soil Conservation Service. Farmers are finding mulch a new method to reduce soil erosion in stalk field during the winter months.

Stalks from high yielding corn are shredded with a rotary mower or stalk cutter to make a protective layer of about three tons of excellent mulch per acre.

Local experience, Graham says, checks closely with results from Purdue Experiment Station. The Indiana work shows that shredding the stalks can cut winter soil losses to less than one-half of that from fields where stalks are left standing. Agricultural Research Service experts working in cooperation with Purdue applied artificial rain by means of a new machine called a rainfall simulator, to corn fields under 3 kinds of treatment. Treatments were: (1) corn stalks as left by the picker, (2) corn stalks shredded only, and (3) corn stalks shredded and disked once. This was on intensively cropped, gently sloping central Indiana farmland silt loam soil.

The results showed soil losses from fields with no shredding were 2.5 tons per acre; shredded were 1.0 tons per acre; shredded and disked were 1.4 tons per acre. This indicates that the disking of the shredded stalks into the soil will increase soil losses and probably should not be practiced.

The benefits from mulched corn stalks can be attributed to the fact that 95% or more of the ground surface will be covered by a protective mulch, Graham explained. When corn stalks remain over winter, as left by the corn picker, 50% or more of the soil surface is exposed to rain-drop action resulting in serious erosion. Not only is erosion increased, but the individual soil particles are broken down and compaction occurs. When dry, a hard crust forms.

"Mulching, or making best use of what's left over, is just one of many practices which are considered as we assist district cooperators in developing a conservation farm plan," Graham observed.

WE HAVE USED A LOT OF IT

Disappearance of corn in each of the past three years has exceeded all previous records. Disappearance is the term economists use for feed, seed, commercial use and export of corn. The big increase has been on farms as feed for livestock and poultry.

Horned Toad Pets

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

Part 2: Marna Is Happy

When the supper dishes were all put away, Aunt Maude came back to her chair by the table.

"Why, where is our box?" she asked, "Mable, did you move it?" Father sat behind his paper again saying nothing.

Aunt Mable looked puzzled, "Did you see it?" she said, but Father pretended not to hear.

"I took them out doors for something to eat," Marna volunteered, "I felt sorry for them."

Aunt Mable sighed, "It is too dark to look for them now. I hated to carry that box. Why would we try to move them to Illinois?" she continued.

Aunt Alice went out to look in the flower border; no toads. The next morning she looked again, "I wanted to see them hop on our brick walk," she explained.

Place For Everything

"It is better to let them stay where they can live," Father remarked, "Marna is taught to help care for our horse and cat and chickens. Toads, too, need the right place to live."

Aunt Maude looked disturbed. After all we have too much luggage to fuss over toads. Our basket of Chinese rice bowls is quite a care. No one has any as choice as ours.

"Maybe no one would like to see horned toads in Illinois."

"I am not carrying that box again," Aunt Mable announced. "What if they starved!"

Marna again felt comfortable. No one would look for the toads again; they could find their own proper food now.

WANT TO HOUNCE SIGNAL OFF MOON?

By Joseph A. Smith

Part 1: Amateurs Can Do It

My regular ham readers probably are wondering just what the radio amateur can do in the field of exploration and communication in outer space.

Well, providing the budget is fat enough to stand the expense of such experiments and the necessary specially built equipment (even if home built) there is considerable he can actually do. In several cases today amateurs are actually bouncing signals off of the moon with amateur designed and built radio gear!

Since the radio amateur is limited to a maximum of 1,000 watts power imput (and approximately 750 watts of actual power output), he must depend on his specially designed and built (usually home-brewed too) ultra high gain radio antenna for further increasing and concentrating his radio signal before it starts on its way to outer space.

As a matter of fact, one of the very first signals to be bounced off the moon and then to be picked up again here on earth at the same location was from a radio amateur transmitter.

What does our experimenter use for a transmitter you ask? Well, the legal limit of power imput (1,000 watts) is run to a specially built ultra-high-frequency final amplifier — transmitter combination which generally will be operating higher than 1,000 megacycles (one billion cycles!) Such gear is far too expensive and complex for the average radio "ham," and requires special training and study to work with successfully not even to mention the obvious higher cost for the special equipment required even when "home-brewed."

What of his special antenna. Well he may use an extra large multi-section antenna where a number of separate "Yagis," similar to your T.V. antenna, are stacked one above the other and side by side. Thus several hundred separate elements will be included in such a "Stacked Array."

The reader who is somewhat familiar with some two meter antennas used by some radio amateurs will have some idea of such an antenna. However, for bouncing a signal off the moon even larger and more complex radio antennas are necessarily used than is used even on two meter amateur band radio communication.

True Story—

Long-Ago School Girl

By Mary Pence Claywell

Part 9: No Chance To Cheat

These examinations were held in one school with children coming from several surrounding districts. A teacher other than your own gave the examination.

There was little chance to cheat . . . even if some one wished to, just as one might now and today. So any boy or girl who could make a passing grade with these county exams, which were exactly the same in all one room schools and came sealed to the teacher-chairman of the different centers, then rest well assured, they had really obtained a "good" grade school education, and were indeed ready to enter a near-by high school. For these tests were thorough and difficult also.

No whispering was allowed between the pupils at any time.

I almost forgot to tell you that in their schools, children did not talk out loud in the old days, except in class or to their teacher. If a child wished to speak to a class mate during school hours, he or she must hold up "one" finger.

On a "yes" nod from the teacher, the child got up quietly and tip-toed over to his neighbor's desk. However, he did not sit down for a long visit. He whispered his needs about a lesson, or perhaps he needed to borrow, and returned to his own seat as soon as the business was over.

Neither did children leave the room during study hours without permission, and usually two fingers went up for the teacher's nod.

A big Webster's Dictionary lay on a desk in the back of the room. In some schools, it was a rule to hold up your fist (closed hand) and you could always get permission when needed. A few children had a desk dictionary of their own.

So you see, even in spite of the early school being a one-room affair, with many classes and many children, we can truly say that they were very orderly. And because concentration was a necessity for success — one of life's greatest achievements was gained early. In these varied groups, so much went on around you, in classes other than your own; and your own was what counted!

Wonder World—

Noolbengers And Solenodons

By Rip Barnsdall

Honey Possum

The Noolbenger is also called the honey possum. It lives in parts of Australia.

Noolbengers are small mammals (animals that feed young milk) reaching a length of about one foot from nose tip to tail tip.

Noolbengers have gray fur on their backs. Their legs and faces are brown in color. Three black stripes run down the back.

Noolbengers have long pointed muzzles. They also have long tongues used to get food from flowers.

They are called honey possums because they love to eat honey.

Noolbengers are most active at night, spending most of the day at rest. While feeding, these small mammals often hang upside down by their tails and gather nectar and pollen from flowering trees.

Solenodon

The Solenodon makes its home in the West Indies. It looks almost like a long-snouted rat.

About the size of a squirrel, the solenodon burrows under logs and debris piles looking for insects upon which it feeds.

Solenodons usually have only one young in a litter. Because of this fact, and because they have many natural enemies, the solenodons are facing extinction.

It is said that solenodons, when pursued by their enemies, poke their heads into a hole as the ostrich is said to do, and leave the rest of their bodies exposed. Scientists, however, aren't too sure about this possible fact.

Rockets And Space—

Would-Be Space Men Get 'Stress' Tests

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

(WADC photo)

To decide which of the 32 test pilot volunteers were best suited to be Project Mercury astronauts the Wright Air Development Center (WADC) in Dayton, Ohio, gave them a series of stress tests.

In order to see how well the prospective astronauts reacted to weightlessness, they were taken aloft in an Air Force C-131B airplane. The plane dived then pulled up sharply into a flight path similar to that of a rocket. This created centrifugal force which balanced the pull of gravity. So the men and equipment in the plane were weightless until the pilot had to pull the plane out of the curving path to avoid hitting the ground.

Do The Harvard Step

To test the candidates' fitness, the WADC scientists had them step 20 inches to a platform once every two seconds. This test, called a Harvard step, continued for five minutes.

The maximum workload of the prospective astronauts was found by having them walk at a steady rate on a treadmill. This moving platform was tilted on one degree each minute. The test continued at this rate until the subject's heart beat reached 180 beats per minute.

Cold Resistance

To study the subjects resistance to cold, he was given a Pressot test. In this test he plunged his feet into a tub of ice water. Before and after this test the subject's pulse and blood pressure are measured.

The prospective astronauts' ability to react reliably under confusing conditions was tested by a complex behavior simulator. This device is a panel with 12 signals each of which demand a different response.

The evolution trial in Dayton, Tenn., resulted from Hunter's Biology, a school textbook.

How To Keep That Gear Going

By Joseph A. Smith

Part 1: Preventing Trouble

Unless you are blessed with a limitless budget (and few of us are) then you have to keep the old reliable (this point some may wish to dispute) gear operating in as good condition as you can.

As we have mentioned before, this is called Preventative Maintainance. Your folks don't usually let their car, house equipment, furnace, etc. run on and on without occasionally getting it checked over, repaired, or possibly working on it themselves if so inclined.

Neither should you with your amateur radio gear or home built Hi-Fi equipment: this is, if you hope for steady, reliable performance from it. The longer you put off such maintainance the more difficult, involved, and expensive it becomes.

So, plan to look that gear over at least twice yearly from top to bottom. Contrary to what you might believe, it will actually be cheaper in the long run.

Questions, Questions

What does a major over-haul consist of you ask? How do I keep the cost down to fit my sadly stretched budget? How do I go about it? How often must I do it?

Well, let's take one question at a time. Let's right at the first differentiate between Preventative Maintainance and a Major Overhaul.

The former are small repairs, adjustments, etc. done regularly at least monthly if at all possible; the latter is a long run project which, fortunately for the budget, usually is only needed once every five to seven years.

Of course I imagine that some of you are saying, why bother about that; I won't have my gear that long anyhow. True, perhaps, but if your gear is over five years old a major over-haul will make a most noticeable improvement in how it performs.

Let's be specific: If your small receiver, Mr. newcomer, is over five years old—say an S-38, NC-33, SW-54, AR-1 or 2, etc.? Well it's high time it was worked on. Properly done, you'll be surprised the performance you've been missing that that little receiver originally was capable of.

Is that low powered transmitter an older model? If so, a bit of parts replacement will definitely boost its performance too. Once it is completed, you can forget it for some time to come except for the occassional Preventative Maintainance measures.

I.C. Students Visit Missouri Botanical Gardens

Tour Climatron, Floral Displays

A streaming Amazonian jungle, a coffee, tea, and rubber plantation, the world's largest collection of orchids, giant South Pacific palms towering forty feet, a fifteen feet cascade waterfall, and the echoes of weird bird calls were all included in the Illinois College classroom for Botany 206, Tuesday, November 29. Twelve IC Botany students, under the direction of their teacher, Assistant Professor May Alice Smith, were visiting the world's largest "greenhouse," technically referred to as The Climatron, located in the Missouri Botanical Gardins — Shaw's Garden in St. Louis.

The Climatron, which opened in October, is a dome-like structure, 175 feet in diameter and rising over 70 feet at the center without a single interior support. Lined by a layer of Plexiglass suspended from an aluminum frame work, the dome is supported at five points on a circular concrete base. From the inside, the dome provides a shadowless enclosure, giving a feeling of openness and natural space that simulates the open sky of outdoors. Multiple "climates" reproduced and controlled mechanically within the Climation and the unique variety of tropical and semi-tropical displays that can be shown in one great room makes this the most advanced votanical display house in the world.

The class was given a guided tour for three hours by Botanist Kenneth Peck, who is in charge of visitors' activities at the garden. The students were allowed to study first hand many of the plants and flower arrangements that they have been learning about in their class, and that normally they never would have been able to discover.

POWER SUPPLY at both ends of city ensures reliable service if one source needs repairs.

More Power to Jacksonville As IPC Increases Capacity

On Monday afternoon, Jacksonville electric customers of Illinois Power Company had a momentary service interruption, one of such short duration you may not have even noticed it. This interruption was a key step in our "cutover" from 34,500 volts to 69,000 volts on our transmission lines in and around the city.

This cutover is but one of the steps we are taking to bring you a continuous supply of reasonably priced electricity. The project includes the installation of ten miles of new shielded-type lines, which resist problems caused by storms. New, higher poles and a substation of the latest design still further improves service reliability. What's more, our network is fed from two sources of supply at the 69,000 volt level. If one of these lines is damaged, your electrical needs still can be met by the second line.

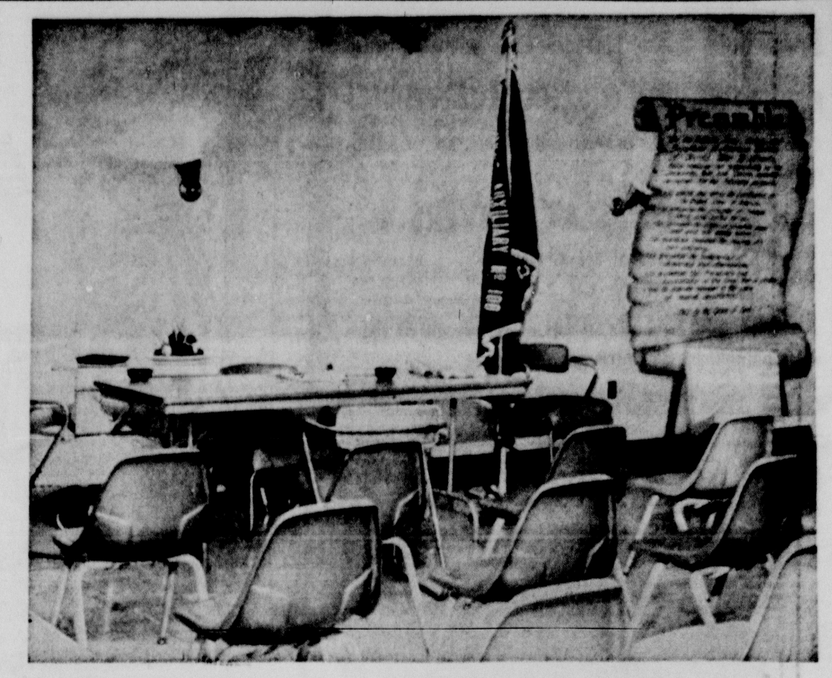
AND

AMVET REDEDICATION DAY



VETERANS OF WORLD WAR II — KOREAN CONFLICT

You and your lady guest are cordially invited to visit the AMVET Home, 210 E. Court St., Jacksonville, on Wednesday, December 7th and join with us in the proper observance of Pearl Harbor Day.

Myron Hill, Commander
Jacksonville AMVET Post 100

* * * * * * * * * * * * * *

On Dec. 7, AMVETS throughout the United States will remind the American people of the events of this date in 1941, which plunged this nation into the most devastating war that the world has ever known.

Should the United States ever again be as unprepared as it was on Dec. 7, 1941, there would be no ceremonies. There would be no AMVETS. There would be no city. There would be no survivors.

Thus, AMVETS, who come in being as a result of the events of Dec. 7, 1941, annually remind the American public of the pressing urgency that the United States have impenetrable military and civil defenses. We must be completely prepared . . . every minute of every day.

As a reminder of preparedness, and in tribute to the men who lost their lives on Dec. 7, 1941, and in the following years of World War II and Korea, AMVETS observe this date as AMVET Day . . . calling public attention to Pearl Harbor . . . and to the urgency that there never be another Pearl Harbor.

While AMVETS pay heed to the lessons of Pearl Harbor, 1941, they also remember the men who came back from World War II and Korea . . . broken in body or mind. And, on a local basis AMVETS serve the less fortunate members of this community through visits to the hospitalized, friendship and assistance to the orphaned and to needy families . . . We also stand ready to help victims of any emergency or disaster . . . and, looking to the future of this community, we offer guidance to young people.

We finance these service programs with the help of the civic-minded members of the community, who annually buy white clovers. The white clover, AMVETS official flower—selected because it grows everywhere and thus symbolizes the far-flung battle-fronts where AMVETS have served. This year white clovers will be sold on Dec. 9th and 10th.

PREAMBLE TO AMVETS NATIONAL CONSTITUTION

We, the American Veterans of World War II, fully realizing our responsibility to our community, to our state, and to our nation, associate ourselves for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States; to safeguard the principles of freedom, liberty, and justice for all; to promote the cause of peace and good will among nations; to maintain inviolate the freedom of our country; to preserve the fundamentals of democracy; to perpetuate the friendships and associations of the Second World War; and to dedicate ourselves to the cause of mutual assistance . . . this by the Grace of God.

IS THERE AN AMVET IN THE HOUSE?

There could be, if there's a veteran of military service with the United States Armed Forces in World War II or Korea. Because AMVETS are seeking important members of the community who are interested in creative community service, we take this means of reaching you. We invite you to join us . . . Membership in AMVETS means affiliation with an active, growing community organization; it means a voice in national and international affairs . . . unlimited opportunities for leadership . . . education . . . expert assistance with veterans' benefits . . . pleasure for your whole family. For detailed information on AMVETS membership contact Jacksonville AMVETS Post 100, 210 E. Court Street.

The boys, left to right, Stephen, 12; Richard, 14 months and David, 10, got their first look at their new twin brother and sister Thursday when their mother, Mrs. Charles Tavender, returned to her home, 1404 South West street, with the infants. Mr. Tavender teaches sixth grade at Washington school.

Tomhave's Tip-In Gives Crimsons 45-43 Victory Over Havana

HAVANA — Ron Tomhave tipped in a rebound with two seconds remaining to give John Chapman's Crimsons a 45-43 victory over Havana Friday night.

It was JHS' first triumph of the season in two outings and it came via a revised lineup which consisted of untried players in varsity fire with the exception of center Richard Sweeney.

The Crimsons led at every stopping point but were pressed in the waning moment of play as Havana came on to knot the score at 43-all. Tom Oxley attempted to break the score but his shot missed and Tomhave was there to put the winning basket through the hoop just as the final gun ended all play.

The winners got balanced scoring from John Warga, 12 points, and Ron Tomhave and Richard Sweeney, each with 11 tallies.

Downstate Prep Notes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

Alex Saudargas, veteran Rockford West high basketball coach, is nearing the magic "200th victory" with the Warriors. Coach Saudargas guided West high to consecutive state championships in 1955 and 1956 has won 197 and lost 48 in a ten year tenure at West high. His Warriors won the opener against Belvidere and play Rock Island and Rochelle this week in games set for Friday and Saturday. The Red and Black play in the Big 8 conference and have an enrollment of 1694 students.

Coach Gil Love of Ottawa's Pirates, a graduate of Griggsville high and Western Illinois University, has only two seniors of note in Bud Bernardoni and Jim Gromm. His juniors, playing as a unit, have lost only one game in their entire career—that last year as sophs to LaSalle-Peru—and the Ottawa coach thinks this team is strong enough to retain the conference championship.

Jerseyville high should be unbeaten when the Panthers host the Holiday tourney Dec. 22-23 with Griffin (Springfield), Hillsboro and Roxana competing for the title. Coach George Havens has a win over Bethalto in the opener and plays five teams, Gillespie, Hillsboro, Winchester, Hardin and Jacksonville prior to their tourney. Alton is the defending champion in the Dupo tourney Jan. 10-13 and Jerseyville will be one of the toughest in that meet.

Coach Don Stanton's Pinckneyville Panthers will play at West Frankfort Friday for the first game away from home this season. Games away for the Panthers will be played at Murphysboro Dec. 16 and at Springfield Dec. 23. Pinckneyville will appear in the Centralia Holiday tourney Dec. 28-30.

Orin K. Noth is the new head football coach at Oak Park high school and he succeeds Chuck Cacek who resigned after the 1960 season. Bob Wright, former Roodhouse high and Illinois University star athlete, is the head track mentor at Oak Park high.

Coach Rich Maack's Paris Tigers are favored to win the Eastern Illinois cage title this season. He is a graduate of Collinsville high and formerly coached at Pittsfield before moving to the Eastern Illinois position. Robinson lost five of the first six players of last season and another is moving soon to Texas.

Litchfield is rated the top team in the Mid State conference and Collinsville is favored to win the Southwestern loop race. Greenfield and Roodhouse are strong in the Illinois Valley conference while the Big 12 favorite is Springfield high. Urbana and Champaign are dark horses in that one. Taylorville could be the "sleeper" in the Mid State race while Mattoon and Decatur might be tough in the Big 12 conference. Moline and East Moline are the top two teams in the Northwest conference while Canton is rated the team to beat in the Illini conference.

Strong teams in Holiday tourneys are Collinsville and Pinckneyville at East St. Louis and Centralia, respectively. Canton and Danville are favored at Canton while Naperville and Farmington are the other tough outfits in this one. Clinton and Springfield appear strong in the Pontiac meet while Jerseyville is favored to win in their tourney.

ACES INTO WIND

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — A 40-mile an hour wind was blowing in her face.

The flag had been blown down by the wind so she didn't know the location of the cup.

But Mrs. Marge Pilch smacked the ball across a corner of a lake on the 18th hole of Cheyenne municipal golf course.

She made a hole-in-one.

Highlanders Dominate Play In Second Half To Earn 71-51 Victory

The MacMurray College High landers broke through a cold first half to romp to a 71-51 victory over Lincoln University of Jefferson City, Mo., Friday night in the season's opener at the Hardin Avenue fieldhouse.

MacMurray couldn't seem to find the range for most of the first half, and with seven minutes remaining in the canto Lincoln held a 21-15 lead. Then at the six minute mark sophomore Larry Krulac sank two long tallies, and Tom Flynn dropped in one more to knot the score 23-23. Krulac, Flynn, and Hahnfeld dominated the rest of the frame for the clansmen as they forged their way to a 32-28 halftime lead.

It was the Highlanders all the way in the second half, as the squad broke into a spirited run-and-shoot brand of ball which steadily increased their margin over the new cooler Tigers of Lincoln. Freshman starter Chuck Mau began to find himself in the second frame, after a jittery first half start. The scoring balanced out among the clansmen, and Coach Bill Wall's cagers moved easily to their 20-point winning margin.

Don McCarty led the Highlanders' scoring with 15 tallies, and Gary Little, Larry Krulac, and Roy Hahnfeld shared second place with 10 points apiece. Norman Strikes was big man for the Tigers, as he took scoring honors for the game with 17 points.

In the cold first half, MacMurray sank only 15 shots of 49 tries for 30.7%, but dumped in 17 of 34 in the second frame for an even 50%. Lincoln shot 39% in the first half, and 31% in the second. The Highlanders were cold all evening at the charity line, hitting only 7 of 16 tries for 44%, while the Tigers counted 9 of their 12 attempts for 75%.

With one win under its belt, MacMurray faces CCI champ Illinois Wesleyan University at Bloomington Saturday, and returns to the home court Monday to meet a tough Western Illinois University squad.

Coach Neil Williams' JV cagers also picked up a victory Friday in the evening's opener, as they edged the Hintz Shoe Trotters of Quincy 64-63. Freshmen Tad Staswick, Bruce Wall, and Tom Jones turned in excellent performances, scoring 15, 12 and 11 points respectively. Stashwick and Glenn Weinstein looked especially good on the boards for the Junior Clansmen.

Bellino, Atkins Provide Devastating Punch On AP All-American Team

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Bellino and Pervis Atkins provide the devastating halfback punch on the 1960 Associated Press All-America football team which boasts a line averaging 226 pounds.

The team announced Friday has Mississippi quarterback Jake Gibbs and Ohio State fullback Bob Ferguson in the backfield with Navy's Bellino and New Mexico State's Atkins.

One of the heaviest forward walls in All-America history is spearheaded by Tom Brown, the 224-pound guard who led Minnesota to the national collegiate championship, just as Dean Widseth (1936) and Dick Wildung (1941) had done.

Ben Balme of unbeaten, untied Yale is on the other guard, with Roy McKasson, the quick-hitting pivot of the Rose-Bowl bound Washington Huskies, at center.

Danny Larose of Missouri and Mike Ditka of Pitt were selected in a particularly close battle at ends. The deciding factor was their versatility, giving them the votes over 1959 All-Americas Marlin McKeever and Fred Mautino among others.

Another 1959 selection who missed a repeat was Washington quarterback Bob Schloredt. He was sidelined most of the season due to a broken collarbone.

Ken Rice of Auburn and Bob Lilly of Texas Christian, a pair of huge tackles, round out the first team.

The Associated Press All America was picked on the basis of recommendations of eight regional boards composed of sportswriters, broadcasters and takes into account all games through nov. 26.

Bellino, Heisman Trophy winner as the outstanding player of the year, is one of the most elusive runners in modern times. But he also can catch passes, throw them and defend like a demon.

With many Academy records to his credit, Bellino finished the regular campaign with 110 points, 18 touchdowns, 834 rushing yards, 280 yards on 17 pass receptions, and 5 pass completions for 112. He also quick kicked for a 47-yard average.

Atkins made New Mexico State's perfect season possible. While teammates Bob Gaiters (the nation's leading rusher and scorer) and Charley Johnson grabbed the statistics, Atkins was the heart of the team.

The 25-year-old wingback carried the ball for 611 yards and a 9.4-yard average, caught 24 passes for 468 yards, scored 80 points, did the punting, hauled back kicks for 511 yards, stood out as a blocked and defensively averaged better than eight unassisted tackles a game.

Gibbs, a skilled athlete who is expected to command a high salary as a professional football or baseball player, directed the Rebels to an unbeaten, once-tied season and the nation's No. 2 ranking.

Passing at better than a 60 per cent accuracy clip, Gibbs hit on 66 of 109 tosses for 970 yards and 12 touchdowns, and also ranked as the most dangerous runner on the squad. It's best defense back and a good punter.

Ferguson, the 217-pounder who played left halfback for the Buckeyes in '59, was moved to fullback this season. Ferguson accounted for 853 yards afoot and scored 13 touchdowns.

Double Overtime

WINCHESTER — A rebound by Bill Brockhouse with two and a half minutes gone in a sudden death playoff gave Coach Jack Renfro's Wildcats an exciting 63-61 victory over Griggsville here Friday night.

The game was nip and tuck all the way but the Wildcats had to rally in the fourth quarter to get in line for victory number two. Charlie Pritchett's hot-shooting Tornadoes commanded an eight point margin in the dying minutes of the final period but a Winchester press nullified the lead and both teams were on even terms for the final minute of play to set up a first three minute overtime.

Winchester missed three free throws and as many shots in the sudden death before Roodhouse ended it all. Griggsville also had two opportunities from the charity line and as many shots but couldn't capitalize. The loss was the first for Griggsville.

XXX

The figure in the darkness behind the door started forward, then backtracked a step. It advanced again, bent slightly in an effort to see around the crack of the barely opened door into the light of the kitchen, and could not. Crouching against the wall a watchful suspicious expression slowly replaced bewilderment on the obscured face. Shoulders shrugged, then straightened: a head cocked to one side, ears trained for sounds on the other side of the door.

There was a gasping sound from the kitchen. The eyes of the intruder narrowed to slits.

A voice cursed.

Janet heard the voice and recognized the anger it contained.

He knows, she thought, while her dazed eyes searched the kitchen for a hiding place. She flicked off the kitchen light with one hand and picked up a dinner plate for a weapon with the other thinking numbly: At least he'll have to find me in the dark. Even as she repeated, "It's too late—too late," under her breath, the door swung wide; a siren sounded in the night. She saw a tall shadowy figure emerge and and pause a moment before it swung around to the back door. A dim hope swelled within her, and the siren's wail grew louder. Simultaneously, a car's tires screeched around a curve in the road, and the intruder fled.

Janet rested against the wall while tears poured down her cheeks. Her body shook, and her teeth chattered. She heard the front doorbell ring and tried to call out that she was coming, but could not force the words from her throat or between her trembling lips. Finally, she groped along the wall, stumbled through the dining room and into the hall. She opened the front door and fell against Cliff, half fainting in relief.

"Mrs. Hamilton! What is the matter . . . ?" He stood in the hall, his hair uncombed, his pajama trousers hanging from beneath his overcoat and repeated his question.

"Someone — someone in the house, in the basement. Footprints in back."

He left the room again and came back, his usually pleasant face hard. Junior trotted jauntily at his heels and she screamed. "Junior! There's Junior. He was gone and we called and called and we couldn't find him."

Cliff sat down beside her again and took her hand between his. "It's all right. You'll be all right. There are no footprints. Do you think you could stop shaking and just tell me what happened?"

She tried. She strained every muscle in her body to tell him of the terror-ridden night, but she could not make him understand.

She jerked her hand away, and the doorbell rang. Good, she thought. He's called the police station. Now they'll search. Now they'll know what I'm saying. Only it wasn't the police. It was Gene with his little black bag.

"Why are you here?" she said sharply. "Where are the police?"

"Take it easy, Janet," he said, walking briskly into the living room and taking the place beside her that Cliff seemed only too willing to leave. He felt her pulse, looked at her eyes and opened his bag to extract something before he rose to his feet. "Hold on a minute, sweetie."

She called after his retreating figure, "Gene, you don't understand. Someone was in the house tonight . . . in the basement."

She tried to push him away. He called to Cliff who came in and held her shoulders against the couch while she struggled, and Gene rolled her pajama sleeve up, plunging a needle into her flesh. "This should take effect in a few minutes," he said over his shoulder to Cliff.

She tried to tell them she didn't want to go to bed. It was no use. Two strong pairs of hands pulled her to her feet and half carried her upstairs. Gene tucked the covers up around her shoulders and switched off the lamp. He sat beside her on the bed murmuring softly. Her eyelids opened and closed slowly. She heard Gene ask, "What happened?"

Cliff's answer seemed far away. "I don't know. The phone rang around 11 or so. I'd gone to sleep just a few minutes earlier. She said something about Johnny Hamilton come quickly to the sink and then she repeated the come quickly. It took me a minute to catch on. I threw a coat over my pajamas and came —fast. She said someone was in the house. But I've looked everywhere—from basement to attic. There's no one here. Not a sign of anyone. I—I kind of think maybe she imagined someone."

Gene turned his head to look at Janet whose eyes were closed. "I'm not surprised," he said softly.

Cliff continued, uncomfortable and worried. "Do you think she could be cracking up? Not that I'd blame her. But honest, Dr. Grey, I've covered the place. Inside and out. If there'd been anyone here, it seems to me he could just as well have killed her as not. Before I came, I mean. If that's what he intended to do. No lock has been forced. Nothing suspicious at all. The dog was in the basement. Do you think that was what she heard?"

Janet tried to say she thought the intruded had meant to kill her and that she'd tricked him, but the two men seemed far away, she could not get her eyes open.

She heard Gene say, "Why do these things always happen to the nice people?"

"Yeah. With all the crumbs in the world."

Dickens Given Four-Year Pact With Hoosiers

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana University gave a new four-year contract Friday to its football coach, Phil Dickens.

The contract replaces a four-year pact which expires next February. Dickens' team this year was under a year's probation by the Big Ten and the National Collegiate Athletic Association and lost eight games and won only one.

I.U. has been under suspension because of alleged violations of regulations concerning the inducement of athletes to enroll at Indiana.

PERSISTENT FISH

GUNNISON, Colo. (AP) — Loyal Frizzell hooked a scrapping rainbow trout. The fish took his bait, leader and part of the line.

Frizzell tried his luck again the next day at the same place. He hooked and landed the same trout and retrieved his original gear.

BATBOY BECOMES CAPTAIN

HANOVER, N. H. (AP) — Jerry Foote, 21, a former batboy for the Kansas City Athletics, will captain Dartmouth's baseball team next spring. He replaces Dan Cilo of New Brunswick, N. J., who has left college.

MAZ MISSES A BIRDIE

SHAWNEE - ON - DELAWARE Pa. (AP) — Pittsburgh World Series hero Bill Mazeroski hit the 18th green with his 200-yard tee shot but his 40-foot putt for a birdie two was one-inch short of the cup. "I'll get the hang of this game yet," said the Pirates' 24-year-old second baseman. He had played golf only five times in his life — all this year.
